EVANSVILLE COLLEGE
EVANSVILLE 4, INDIANA

February 9, 1949

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

To the Students of Evansville College:

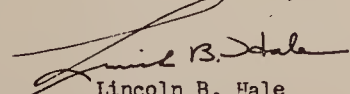

It gives me great pleasure to compliment the editors of the LinC upon their splendid direction in producing the 1949 LinC.

It has been my privilege to review the materials before they went to the printer. The 1949 LinC is different. It has caught the spirit of Evansville College wherein we are constantly endeavoring to relate theory and practice that our program may be the more valuable to students.

The editors of the LinC are using this functional approach in the design of this yearbook. It leads to the different organization of materials. For example, faculty are recognized not as a group, but rather in their functional relationship to student life, whether it be academic or social.

I am sure you will find this LinC most interesting. It is well to remember that the LinC, in itself, represents in its total production, one of the valuable educational functions in which students share at Evansville College.

Sincerely yours,

Lincoln B. Hale
President

ACTIVITIES

Engineering and Science

Members of Phi Beta Chi from left to right: John Sullivan, Arthur Dwyer, Mr. Guy Marchant, Mr. Donald Dunham, Mr. James Sears, Mr. Ralph Coleman, Mary Doris Hayes, Mr. Robert Artman, Mr. Alvin Strickler, and Miss Grace Kimball.

PHI BETA CHI

Phi Beta Chi is the national honorary fraternity for upperclassmen majoring in a natural science. Students of mathematics, physics, biology, and engineering, who have made A grades in 50 per cent of their major field and B or above in related subjects are eligible for nomination.

The purposes of the organization are to give recognition to distinguished students in natural science, stimulate students to attain higher standards in their course work, and to acquaint its members with the unsolved problems of science.

Mary Doris Hayes served as president for the year, and Mr. Robert Artman, associate professor of physics, is permanent secretary-treasurer.

MATH CLUB

The Math Club was organized on the Evansville campus in 1947 to help the student further his interest in mathematics and in some instances help supplement the regular class work.

In order to be eligible for membership, a student must be an upperclassman and must have completed a course in calculus.

Officers of the Math Club for this year were Kenneth Leimgruber and Jim Fowler, presidents first and second quarter, Norris Parrent and Don Hartig, vice presidents first and second quarter, and Frank Hayes, secretary-treasurer.

Professor V. C. Bailey, associate professor of mathematics, is the faculty advisor.

ELECTRONICS CLUB

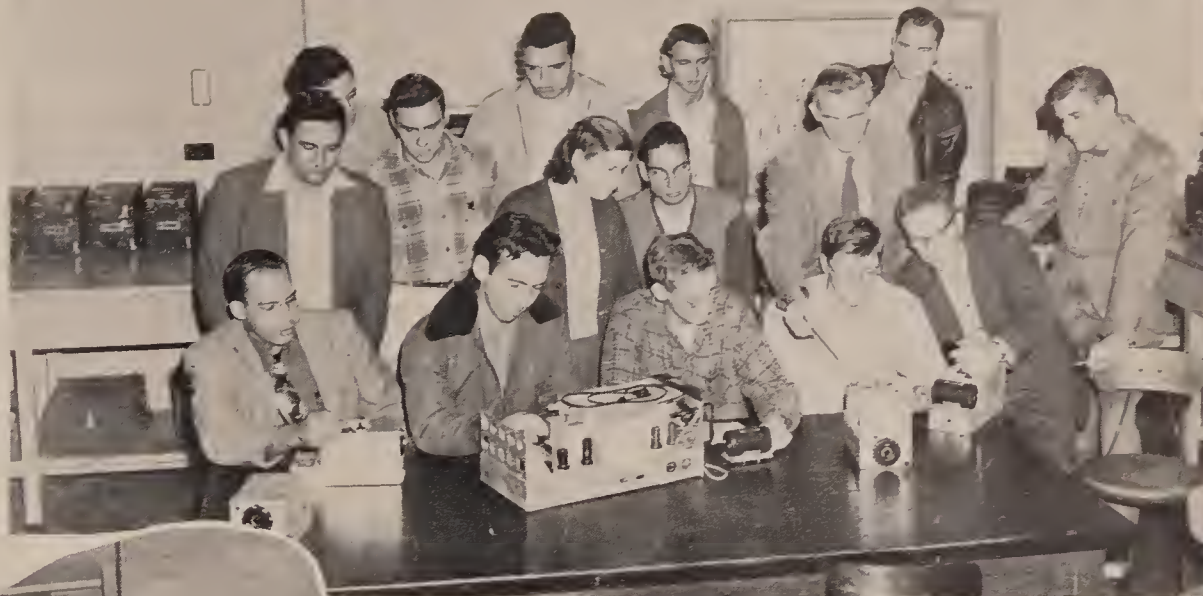

The Electronics Club has been active in the field of radio at Evansville College since 1947.

The club members have constructed their own amateur radio station, W9NVN, and alternate among the members at transmitting and receiving messages over its wave lengths.

First quarter officers were Oran Toole, president; Bill Driggers, vice president; and Fred Davison, secretary-treasurer.

Officers for the second quarter were Bill Driggers, president; Fred Davison, vice president; and Wilfred Bahr, secretary-treasurer.

Faculty sponsor for the club is Professor James Sears, head of the physics department.

CHEMICAL CLUB

Organized two years ago to stimulate interest in chemistry, the Chemical Society of Evansville College is a chapter of the student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society.

The society, which meets with local affiliate clubs and has outside speakers in the related fields of chemistry, also made several local plant tours during the year.

Officers for the year were: Cletus Kroeger, president; Elmer Gowen, vice president; and Earl Banner, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the Chemistry Club first row left to right: Mr. Martin Chanin, assistant professor of chemistry, Ph.D., University of Michigan, Mr. Alvin Strickler, head of chemistry department, Ph.D., University of Michigan. Second row left to right: Paul Banner, Cletus Kroeger, William Graves, Elmer Gowen, Ted Yeiser, D. W. McWilliams, Eugene Martin, and Russel Day. Third row left to right: Fred Schultheis, Clarence Titzer, and Harry Williamson.

ENGINEERING CLUB

The Engineering Club was founded in 1924 to offer students firsthand information in the field of engineering.

Lectures pertaining to the problems and the practical sides of engineering were featured at the meetings. In addition to lectures, several movies were shown to the group, and club members visited industrial plants in Indiana and Kentucky.

Officers of the organization were Albert Jeffers, president; William Crowell, vice president; Kenneth Crook, secretary; and Frank Nelson, treasurer.

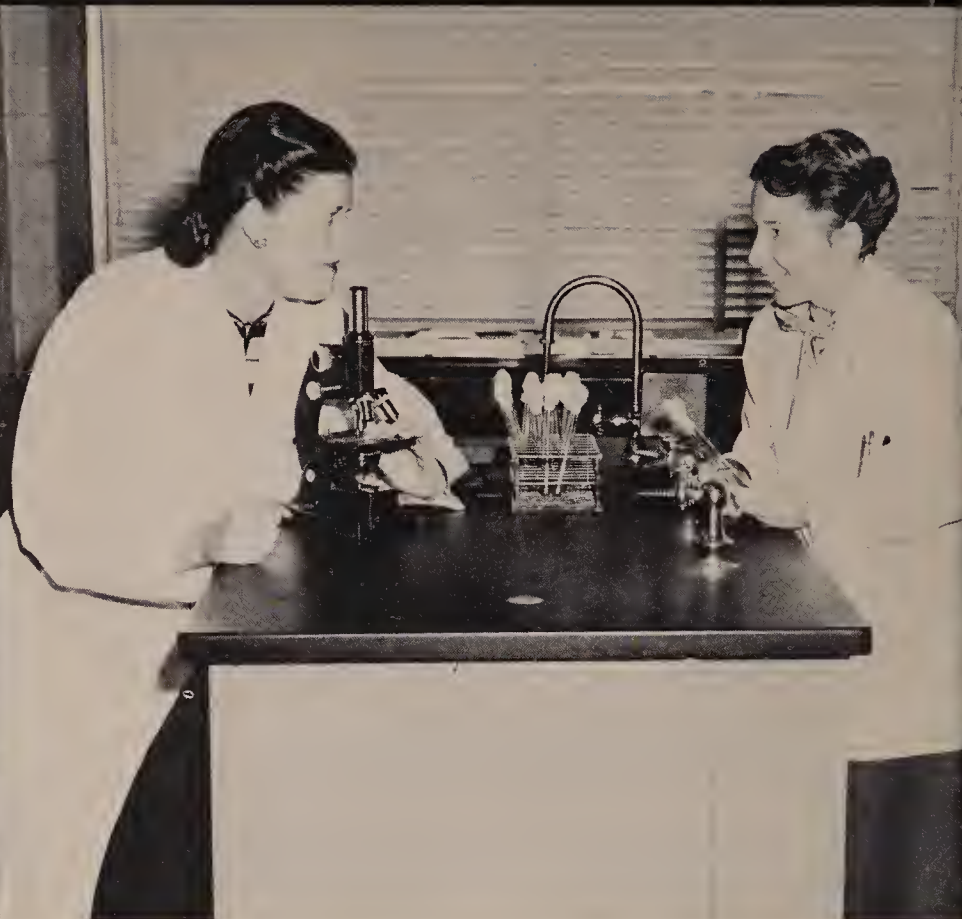

Faculty advisor for the club is Professor Ralph Balyeat, head of industrial technology.

Members of the Engineering Club kneeling left to right: John Williams, Victor Campbell, Monte Williams, Bill Crowell, Don Carter, Frank Nelson, Jerry Pasek, Al Jeffers, Bob Riddle, Tommy Osborne, John Schneider, and John Hermann. First row standing left to right: Mr. James Sears, Mr. John Caraway (guest speaker), Mr. William Hartsaw, instructor of engineering, B.S., Purdue, Mr. Ray Boggs, assistant professor of engineering, M.A., Northwestern, Walter Harber, Charles Dewig, Orlin Wiggins, Lois Winkler, and Mr. Myron Bishop, professor of engineering, M.I.E., Ohio State. Second row standing left to right: Otis Lupton, Pete Harris, Mr. Ralph Balyeat, director of cooperative training, M.A., Toledo University, Henry Dersch, William Mitchell, George Fleming, George Hollon, Charles Glackman, Glen Katterhenry, Frank Hayes, and Mr. Robert Artman, associate professor of physics, M.S., University of Iowa.

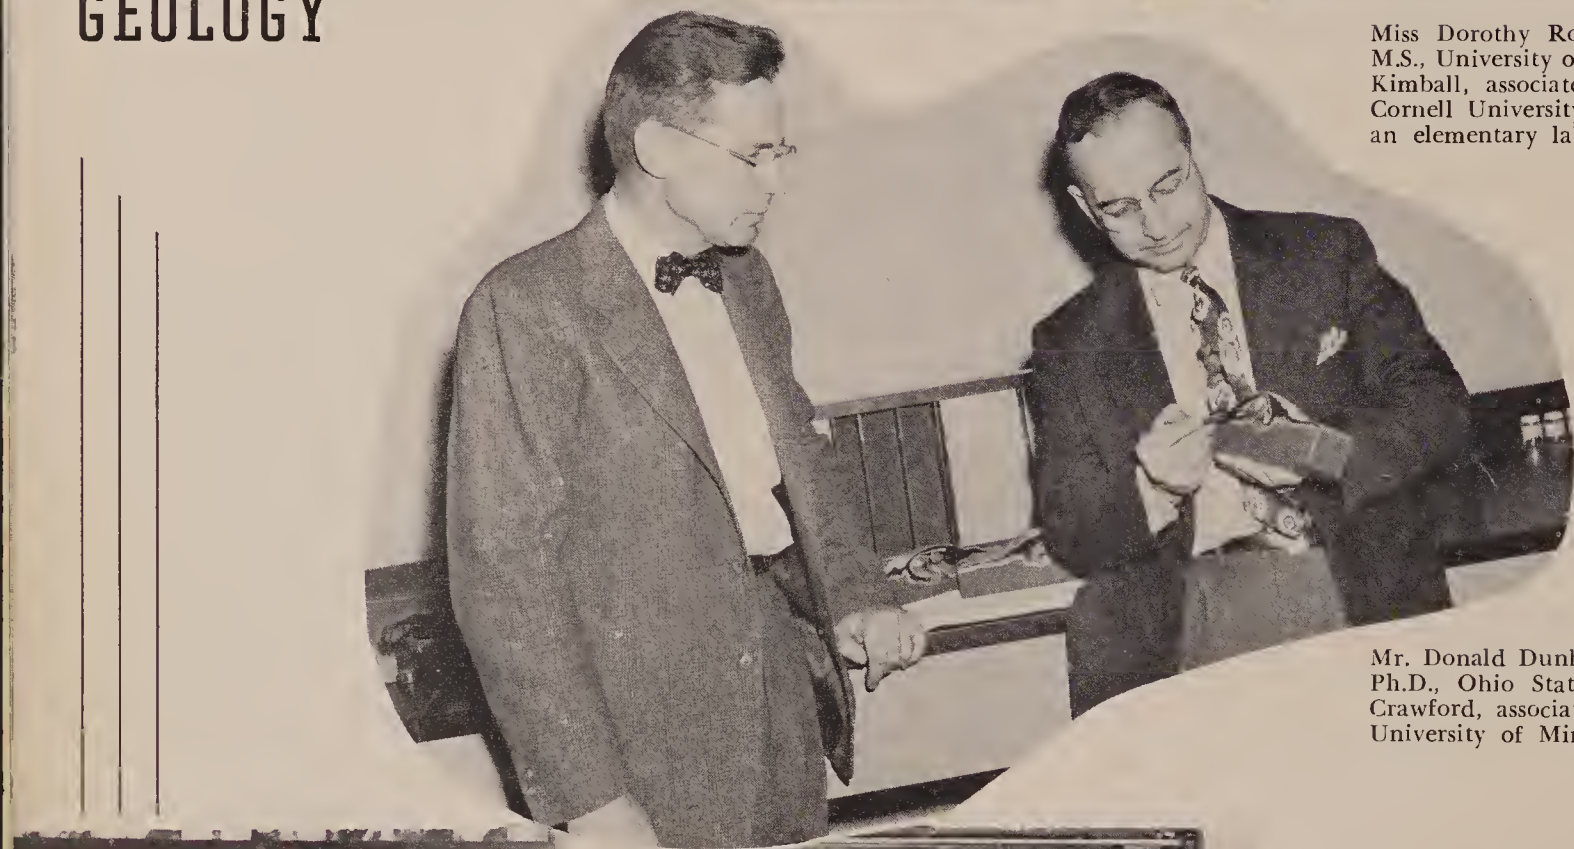

The geology and geography department was formed in 1948 with Dr. Franklin MacKnight, pictured right, Ph. D., University of Chicago, as its director. This department endeavors to supply personnel for the tri-state oil region. Students take frequent field trips to supplement their class and laboratory work.

GEOLOGY

Miss Dorothy Rothrock, instructor of biology, M.S., University of Chicago, left, and Miss Grace Kimball, associate professor of biology, Ph.D., Cornell University, are making preparations for an elementary laboratory class.

BOTANY

Mr. Donald Dunham, left, professor of biology, Ph.D., Ohio State University, and Mr. Wiley Crawford, associate professor of biology, Ph.D., University of Minnesota.

PRE-MED CLUB

The promotion of medical knowledge to all pre-medical, pre-dental, and nursing students who compose its membership is the aim and objective of the Pre-Med Club.

This organization gathers information on medical and dental schools and makes it available to its members. Meetings of the club consist of informal discussions, motion pictures, and talks by well known doctors of the community.

Serving as officers were Irene Bailey, president; Eugene Gore, vice president; and Thomas Walker, treasurer.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club is primarily for majors and minors in Home Economics, but it has been opened to students who are interested in that field.

The objectives of the club are to promote teamwork and friendship, to encourage creative arts and activities, and to provide social and business experience through various aspects of club life.

Hermoin Ramage and Vonda Millas are examining stains on slides under the microscope to acquaint themselves with various bacillae.

The membership this year includes more than 25 girls who met bi-monthly. Some of the programs this year included Mrs. Edwin Karges, who spoke on Interior Decorating, a Potluck supper and the annual style show.

Barbara Blood served as President and was assisted by Betty Marshall, vice president; Lou Schmitt, Secretary; Pat Rampy, Treasurer; Lanah Arnold, Social Chairman; and Joan Henn, Publicity.

NURSE TRAINING

Pre-nursing students of three local hospitals, St. Mary's, Welborn Baptist and Deaconess, have been taking, in connection with their regular training, a general bacteriology course of the college.

Lectures given at the hospitals by Dr. Grace Kimball, associate professor of biology, were supplemented by laboratory work at the college.

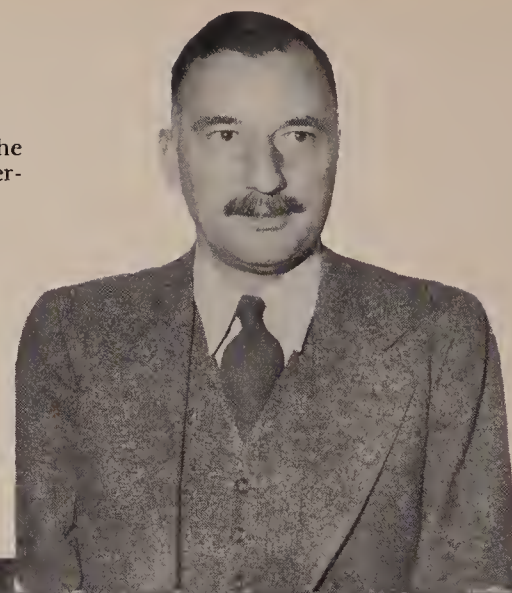

The combined group totaling approximately 120 or 125 students, was divided into five sections, each attending class one day a week.

Joyce Stevens is preparing a slide to be used under the microscope for bacteria analysis.

Mr. Martin S. Shockley, head of the department of English; Ph.D., University of North Carolina.

English

Members of the English department left to right: Mr. Edward Potter, associate professor of English, M.A., University of Notre Dame, Mr. A. C. Spence, assistant professor of English, M.S., University of Illinois, Mrs. Charlotte Stephens, instructor of English, A.B., DePauw University, Miss Mary Wolfe, assistant professor of English, M.A., University of Missouri, Mr. Richard Fuson, assistant professor of English, M.A., State University of Iowa, and Miss Pearle LeCompte, assistant professor of speech, M.A., Northwestern University.

Checking over the latest cards in the main library is Miss Virginia Haynes, librarian, B.S., University of Kentucky.

The college debate team, coached by Mr. A. C. Spence, competed in ten college debates and two tournaments this year. In the first college tournament, staged at Purdue University, Clarence Clayton placed fourth in competition with some ten colleges and universities.

The four members that participated in forensics make up the Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary debate fraternity. To gain membership in this organization a student has to debate for two years, be in the upper third of his class, and have faculty recommendations.

The topic this year was, resolved: That the federal government should adopt a policy of equalizing educational opportunity in tax supported schools by annual grants.

Practicing script reading before a microphone are Emmy Seegmueller and Harvey Rose.

RADIO

In one of the newest types of class in the Evansville College curriculum, radio showmanship and advertising are taught on a practical basis. During the winter quarter, Mr. A. C. Spence guided the class through the preliminary phases of radio, which include reading commercials and news reports, obtaining a variety of effects, drama, and the sale of advertising.

The spring quarter is devoted to the direction and production of all types of script shows.

Students actually simulate broadcasting conditions, make recordings of their shows, and play them back to determine what improvements may be made.

Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, assistant professor of drama and speech, received her M.F.A. from Yale University.

DRAMA

The Linden Tree, presented by the Thespians as their twenty-fifth anniversary production, was built around an English family trying to adjust themselves to a revolution in progress at the time this play is set.

The professor's family includes three daughters, the two eldest possessing sophisticated characteristics, whereas Dinah, the youngest daughter, is happy and untouched by life's tiring problems. Rex is the only son that makes his money through his cleverness.

Most of the play concerns a discussion of the professor's retirement from the university, and the problems of his family. The professor's wife is near a nervous breakdown, while he is of strong character and refuses to retire, even if it is beneficial to his family.

LINDEN TREE

The set begins to take shape during rehearsal, as paint and light crews work quietly in the background. Standing in orchestra pit, left, is Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, director of college productions, and Kathryn Starry, prompter. Left to right; seated at table, Frank Chandler, Chuck Palmisano, Colleen Cain, and Evelyn Cameron. Behind the table left to right; Donna Cyrier, Louis Ray, working with brush, and Doris Donovan. Seated on the divan left to right; Diane Hadley, Emmy Seegmueller, and Jack Kasey.

Behind the scenes work is carried on vigorously to have the props completed for the production date. Mike Reagan is working in the foreground, while Bill Simmons assists in the back right.

THESPIANS

The Thespians, campus dramatic society, have taken an active part in school activities for the past twenty-three years. This year three productions rounded out the calendar, along with the traditional Christmas play, Eager Heart.

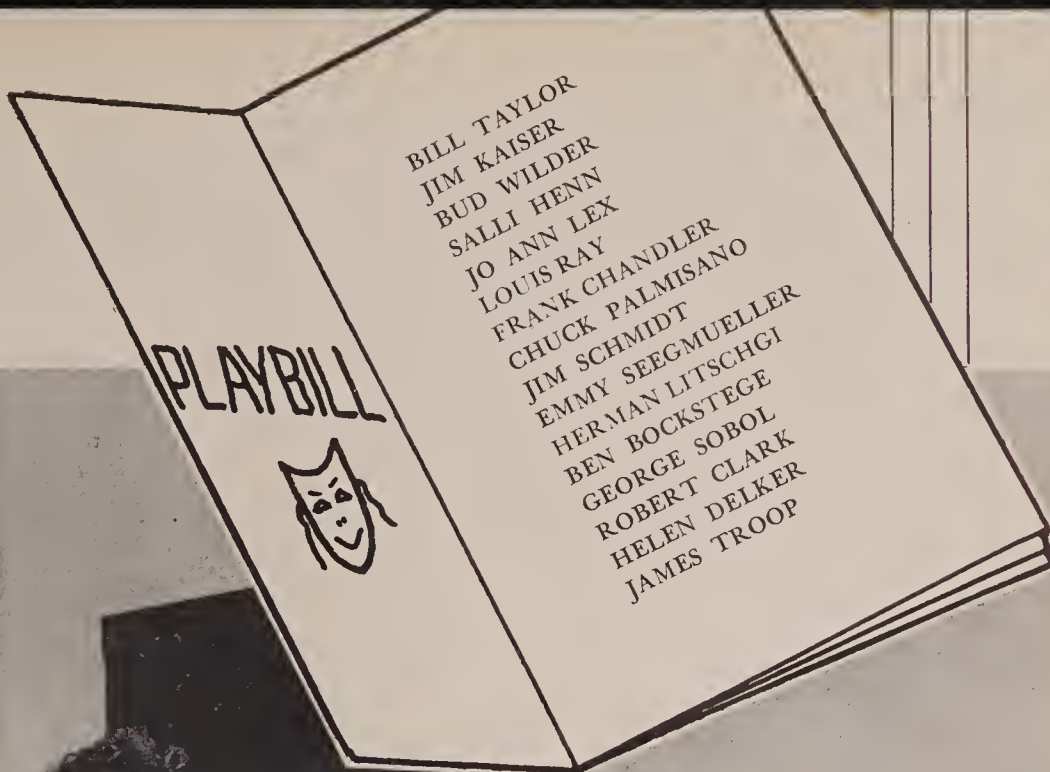

Diane Hadley, assistant to Mrs. Taylor, files costume cards for the next play.

Mrs. Kenneth Taylor looks over the costume rack while Sam Wherry, LinC photography editor, adds some of his dry humor.

Jim Schmidt is relieving Bill Taylor, who is in a drunken condition, of his trousers while Jo Ann Lex adds what assistance she can and still keep her dignity.

Three Men on a Horse

An audience always feels that they have seen a good production when they are made to laugh. The people that saw "Three Men on a Horse" were constantly brought to a roar by the convincing acting of Bill Taylor in his drunken scenes.

Erwin Trowbridge, played by Bill Taylor, was a frustrated greeting card verse-writer who could pick up a racing form and check off the winners right down the line. Trowbridge never capitalized on his skill, but the three men on a horse, Patsy, Charlie, and Frankie, portrayed by Chuck Palmisano, Jim Kaiser, and Bud Wilder, respectively, realizing Trowbridge's talent, saved themselves from bankruptcy by using his little red book of winners.

Salli Henn, in her first college performance, was cast as Trowbridge's understanding wife; Louis Ray was his brother-in-law, and Frank Chandler, his boss.

The supporting cast was composed of Jo Ann Lex, Jim Schmidt, Emmy Seegmueller, Herman Litschgi, Ben Bockstegge, George Sobol, Robert Clark, Helen Delker, and James Troop.

Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, assistant professor of drama and speech, in directing her first play at Evansville College, showed the students and public that they can expect big things from the Thespians this year.

Jim Kaiser, Chuck Palmisano, Jim Schmidt, and Bud Wilder look over Trowbridge's book of sure winners. It is this book that the Three Men on a Horse use to beat the racing racket.

THE EVANSVILLE Crescent

Arlene Starry, editor, is busy typing a story to beat the deadline.

CRESCENT

A small but competent staff of workers put in many long hours printing The Evansville Crescent, weekly student newspaper, now in its thirtieth year of publication.

The Crescent kept students well posted on school news and the editorial page added society notes and personals to give a well rounded tone.

Arlene Starry took the brunt of the work in her job as editor, and received able assistance from Bill Woods, sports editor, Bill Cobb, feature editor, Sue Dannettell, editorial page editor, and Jo Ann James, news editor.

Bob Young was in charge of advertising, and was assisted by Lloyd Seifert.

Mr. John Boyd, faculty advisor for the newspaper, is seated behind his typewriter working on a story for publication.

PI DELTA EPSILON

PI DELTA EPSILON

Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity, began the first quarter with only four faculty members and six students as active members. They were: Anna M. Flucks, Shirley Olson, Arlene Starry, Jonathan Gundling, Gene Market, Emily Combs, students; and Mr. John A. Boyd, Mr. Ralph Olmsted, Mr. Harold Van Winkle, and Dr. Martin Shockley.

Through only in its third year on campus, the fraternity has instituted several worthwhile projects. Five merit scholarships to Evansville College and one to the University of Chicago were presented last year.

Though only in its third year on campus, the Journalism Society has instituted several worthwhile projects. Two annual journalism scholarships to Evansville College, sponsored by the organization, were presented for the first time during the past year.

As a basis for making the scholarship program more effective, a journalism clinic was formed. The purpose was to promote interest in journalism among tri-state high school students enabling them to visit Evansville College and participate in journalism discussion groups. Through work submitted by the high school students to the organization prior to this clinic, and through their participation in clinic events, the two journalism scholarship awards were made.

Jonathan Gundling, editor, put the book together.

STAFF

1949

James R. Hill, art editor, drew up the picture and copy arrangements, and added laughs with his cartoons.

Jo Ann James, left, wrote up various organizations and activities; and Bill Woods, assisted in the advertising department.

Janet Roberts, business manager, solicited the advertising and kept the books balanced.

Mr. John Boyd, was advisor for the 1949 LinC.

Gene Market, sports editor, covered all sports activities and added originality to his section with a different style of writing.

CAMERA CLUB

The Evansville College Camera Club was organized in 1947 for the purpose of a mutual exchange of knowledge between members.

The club conducts lectures and discussions at its weekly meetings. Demonstrations by local amateur and professional photographers at the monthly meetings. At these meetings informal individual instruction of the neophytes by the more experienced shutterbugs is given.

The club conducts an annual Salon which is open to prints from Evansville College students.

Officers for this year were: Glen Elder, president, Don Pribble, vice president, and Wilma Pierce, secretary-treasurer.

MODERN LANGUAGES

Looking over a Spanish textbook is Mr. Thomas Doherty, assistant professor of Spanish, M.A., Middlebury College, and Miss Gertrude Leich, assistant professor of Spanish, M.A., National University of Mexico.

Head of the modern language department is Mr. Francis Werking, Ph.D., Ohio State University.

For those students who needed a foreign language as a tool or as a means of advancement for academic and professional competence, the department of modern languages stood ready to serve.

The department is headed by Mr. Woody Werking, who teaches classes in German, French and Italian phonetics, and Greek and Latin derivations. Miss Gertrude Leich teaches Spanish, and Mr. Thomas Doherty, is an instructor of Spanish and French.

A new course, Greek and Latin derivations in scientific terminology was added to the department's curricula during the past year.

Business Administration

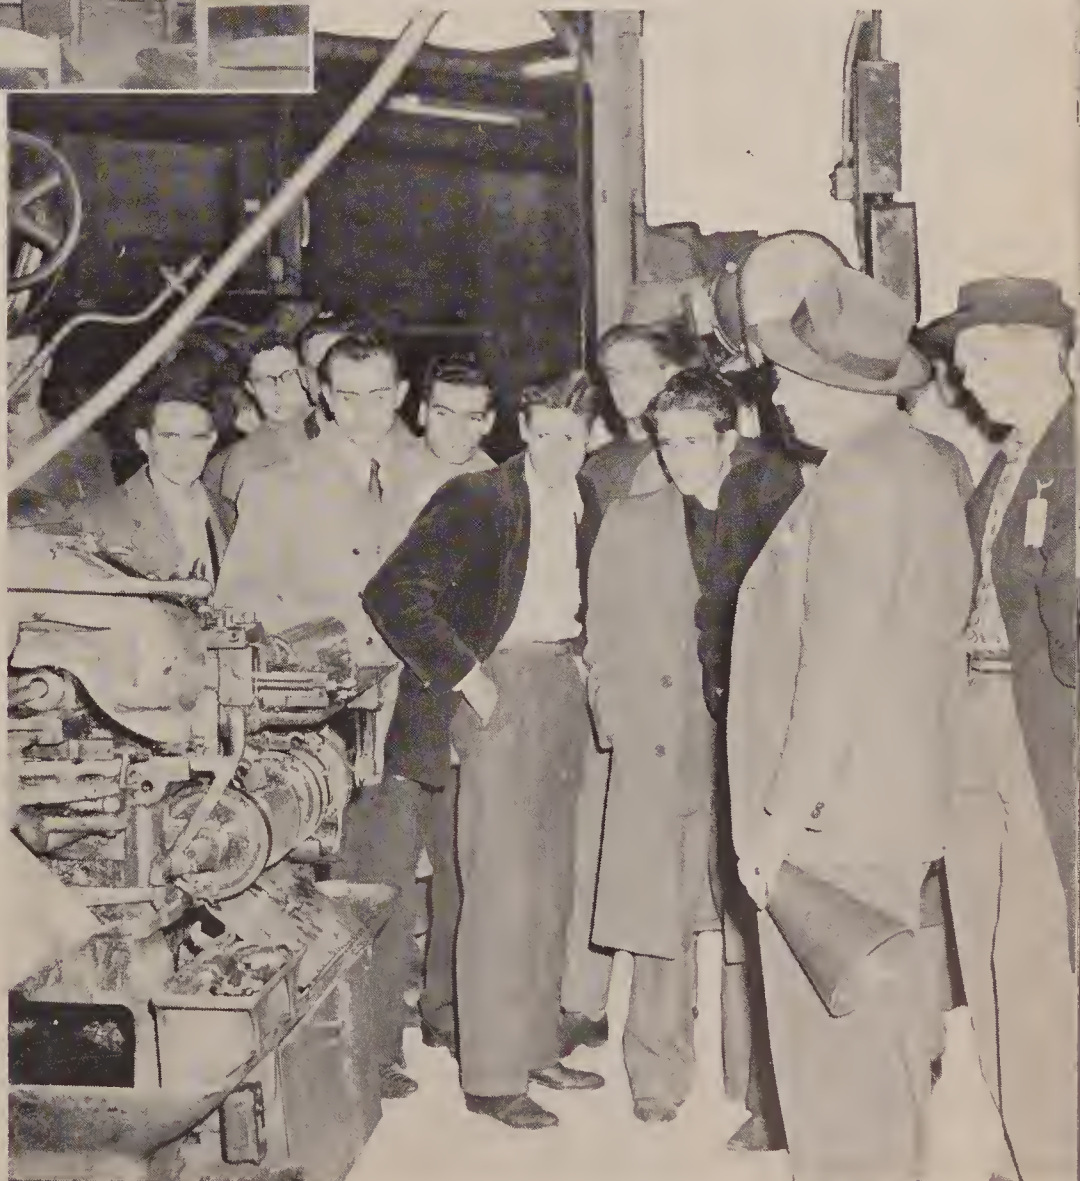

Mr. Dean Long, administrative assistant to the president and head of the department of business and economics, M.B.A., Harvard Graduate School of Business.

BETA ALPHA KAPPA

Beta Alpha Kappa, business administration club, is a member of the National Intercollegiate Chamber of Commerce, which is composed of some of the major colleges throughout the country.

Membership in BAK is open to any person majoring in business administration or economics.

Officers during the year were Owen Hamilton, president; Harry Goldblatt, vice president; and Evelyn Ayers, secretary. After Mr. Hamilton's graduation in January, Mr. Goldblatt took over the position of president of the organization, and Norris Reynolds was elected to fill the vacancy of vice president. Charles Studer was the secretary.

The group visited several local manufacturing plants and also had outside individuals as guest speakers during the year. They saw and discussed subjects of interest to the group on the related fields of business and economics.

Mr. Paul Busey, associate professor of economics, was the faculty advisor.

SECRETARIAL SCIENCE CLUB

Full membership in the Secretarial Science Club is open to women majoring or minoring in secretarial science. Women in the Business Administration department are eligible for associate membership.

Activities through the year included initiation of two new members, Erma and Frieda Montgomery; a Christmas party at the home of Mary Hormuth; potlucks; business meetings; and varied programs.

Selection of the girl-of-the-month was a feature of each meeting. Girls receiving this honor were Jacqueline Schmitt, Mary Lou Muth, and Nancy McCaffrey. The girls receiving this award were chosen for their qualities of typifying the perfect secretary.

Seniors majoring in secretarial science participated in the annual Perfect Secretary contest, held this spring.

Officers of the Secretarial Science Club for this year were Jacqueline Schmitt, president; Ruth Nendel, vice president; Betty Berges, secretary; Helen Bollinger, treasurer; Phyllis Tirmenstein, publicity chairman. Faculty sponsor is Miss Agnes Tompkins, head of the Secretarial Science Department.

ACCOUNTING CLUB

Membership in the Accounting Club is open to students majoring or minoring in accounting.

The club, which was organized three years ago, brings outside speakers in the field of accounting to address the club members on topics related to the field. These lectures, it was stated, helped to integrate the college courses with the actual business field of practice.

Club officers for the year were Russell Shrode, president; Richard Lambert, vice president; and Harry Wilder, secretary-treasurer.

Warren Reininga, assistant professor of accounting, has been the faculty advisor during the past year.

Education

The audio-visual laboratory supplements the classroom work. A vast selection of movies is available on science, education, and psychology, to mention only a few.

Instructors in the secondary education field are Mr. Leland Moon (seated), professor of education, Ed.D., Columbia University, and Mr. Robert Buell, director of student teaching, Ph.D., State University of Iowa.

SECONDARY EDUCATION

Secondary Education draws students from all departments of the college. Twenty-seven hours of education is required of all students preparing to teach in the secondary school. This year seventy-two students met requirements for licenses in secondary education. Of this number twenty-six have selected the social studies and twenty-one physical. The remaining have chosen science, mathematics, music, art, English, business, French, and Spanish.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

After a year's experience in student teaching in the city schools, the fifteen seniors in elementary education are convinced that they have selected an interesting profession. This number of graduates will have to be greatly increased in order for Evansville College to meet her responsibility in helping to adequately staff the elementary schools for 1957, when an additional eight million will be in school.

A. C. E.

The Association of Childhood Education is a national professional organization for teachers.

Outside speakers, including former members of the club now in the teaching field, returned at various times during the year to talk to the group of their experiences.

Officers for the year were Sue Goeke, president; Mary Lou Winsett, vice president; Marylu Plane, secretary; and Jeanne Carter, treasurer.

Faculty sponsor was Miss Lucile Jones, head of the department of education.

Head of the department of education is Miss Lucile Jones, M.A., Columbia University.

Wade David, head of the department of history, received his doctor's degree from the University of Minnesota.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

The International Relations Club met monthly to discuss current events and problems of the day.

Rolland Eckles was president of this year's group that was founded early in 1946. Since that time the membership has increased greatly.

Club members were given firsthand information about foreign countries by exchange students attending Evansville College.

The organization was sponsored by Wade David in conjunction with the history department to help students better understand the attitudes and backgrounds of foreign nations.

PRE-LAW CLUB

The Pre-law Club, an organization of students preparing for law school, has as its purpose to acquaint its members with the legal profession, in order that they may definitely decide if they wish to enter this field and to choose an area of specialization or to better prepare for law school.

The club's program during the year consisted of evening informal meetings to hear recent graduates of law school, veteran attorneys, and public officials in the administration of law. In October the two major candidates for Congress, Mr. Edward A. Mitchell and Mr. Winfield K. Denton were presented at the same time in a special assembly by the club.

Officers of the club were: Robert Hahn, president; E. L. Whitmer, vice-president; and Ann Sinnett, secretary-treasurer. The club's faculty advisor is Mr. Cyrus L. Gunn, Assistant Professor of History.

Evidence of the pandemonium that broke out every time a favorite candidate was nominated. Here banners are being waved by enthusiastic students who attended the first Mock Republican Nominating Convention at Evansville College.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Evansville College was host to Republicans at the first nominating convention held on the campus. Although the group that congregated was composed of college and high school students, they went through the motions of the real thing.

The Evansville Armory might have been Convention Hall, Philadelphia or Soldiers Field, Chicago. Long-winded political speeches, parades, bargaining for votes, and balloting, gave this mock convention realistic tones. When the fourth ballot was tabulated, amid hilarity and confusion, Harold Stassen emerged as the popular choice by acclamation.

Dr. Wade David, head of the history and political science department, sponsored the project so that students would get an insight of what transpires at actual political conventions.

PI GAMMA MU

Pi Gamma Mu is a National Social Science Honor Society. The Indiana Alpha chapter of Pi Gamma Mu became affiliated with the National organization in 1929 and has been active on the campus since that time.

Recognition of scholastic attainment is achieved by admission of no more than ten per cent of the total number of upperclassmen during the year in which the election is made.

Recognition of service is achieved by giving a special award to the member who has done outstanding social service work in the community. Marvin Hartig received the service award last year.

The purpose of the organization is to improve scholarship in the social studies; to inspire social service to humanity by an intelligent approach to the solution of social problems; to engender sympathy toward others with different opinions and institutions by a better mutual understanding; and to support, but not to supplant existing social science organizations by promoting sociability and attendance at meetings.

Members of the Pi Gamma Mu Fraternity first row left to right: Mr. Everette Walker, Mrs. Katherine Long, Mr. James E. Morlock. Second row left to right: Harold Chessar, Jim Price, Bill Pfeiffer and Earl Harp. Third row left to right: Mr. Paul E. Kelley, Mr. James A. Julian, Ralph Elsner, Earl Buechler, Kenneth Ayer. Fourth row left to right: Mr. E. M. McKown, Mr. Wade David, Mr. Warren Reininga, Mr. A. B. Cope, Mr. L. W. Anderson.

Mr. James Morlock, professor of sociology and head of the department, received his Ph.D. from Ohio State University.

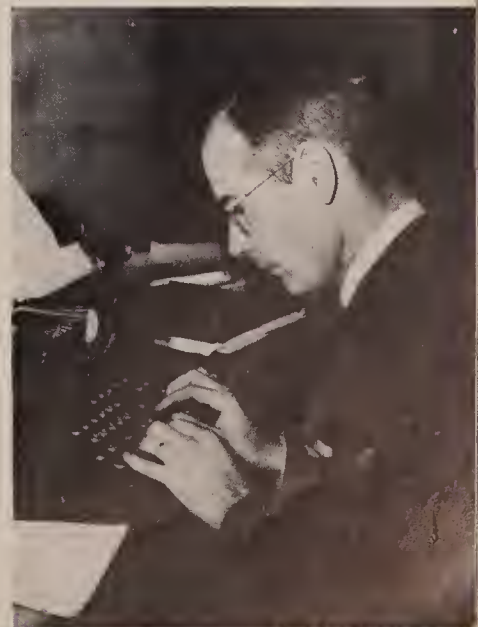

SOCIOLOGY

The Department of Sociology, with Dr. James Morlock at its head, besides offering the usual courses in the study of behavior and attitudes of persons, problems in poverty, sanitation and delinquency, and family relationship, sponsors trips to the east and west coasts, Canada, and Europe. Last summer Dr. and Mrs. E. M. McKown guided the western trip that stopped at such places of interest as Pikes Peak, Yellowstone National Park, the Grand Canyon, Reno, and Hollywood.

Two groups toured the eastern portion of the United States and Canada. The students saw most of the spots of interest in Chicago, Detroit, Quebec, Montreal, New York, Pittsburgh, and Washington.

Mr. Harold Bottrell, associate professor of sociology, received his Ph.D. from Northwestern University.

PSYCHOLOGY

The psychology department is given to the purpose of analyzing and explaining human behavior, as well as aiding individuals to learn more about themselves in order that they may find a better pattern of living.

The department teaches courses pertaining to children and their growth, business and its psychological problems, and the health of the mind.

Mr. V. W. Maves, Ph.D., George Peabody College, is shown at left, and Mr. Alfred Cope, M.A., University of Kansas, at right. Both psychology professors are operating the Ophthalmograph, used to improve the speed and comprehension of reading.

The department of art with Miss Florence Keve at the head is operating for the first time this year as a separate department. It was formerly connected with the department of music.

Classes and equipment have been expanded and now meet in the Reserve Library Building, in studios in Newburgh, and at the museum. Instructors include Miss Keve, Mr. Walker Messick, and Mr. Fred Eilers.

The main aims of the department are to provide a cultural background in liberal arts, provide teaching methods for students in the department of education, provide teachers for the art profession, and correlate art in the city of Evansville.

In November student art work for the fall quarter was exhibited at a three day open house, highlighted by a tea for students and faculty. Similar exhibits were shown at the end of the winter and spring quarters.

The department sponsored one of the regular Tuesday-Wednesday assemblies when Ulfert Wilke, German born painter, spoke.

An exhibit of Mr. Paul W. Ashby, Evansville College alumnus was shown in January in connection with the Fine Arts Committee of the Student-Faculty Federation.

Jim Cooper and Sarah Kessler assist Dorothy Surbeck make posters for the various organizations. This new equipment has taken the place of the poster club.

In an art class students work on linoleum cuts and freehand drawings as shown here from left to right: Betty Wood, Margaret Mary Schenk, Don Swift, and Mildred Wood.

Miss Florence Keve, head of the art department, M.A., Columbia University, is examining a sculpture product.

Third row, standing: Philip Reisinger, Arthur Adye, George Kyle, John Schofield, Edwin McClure.

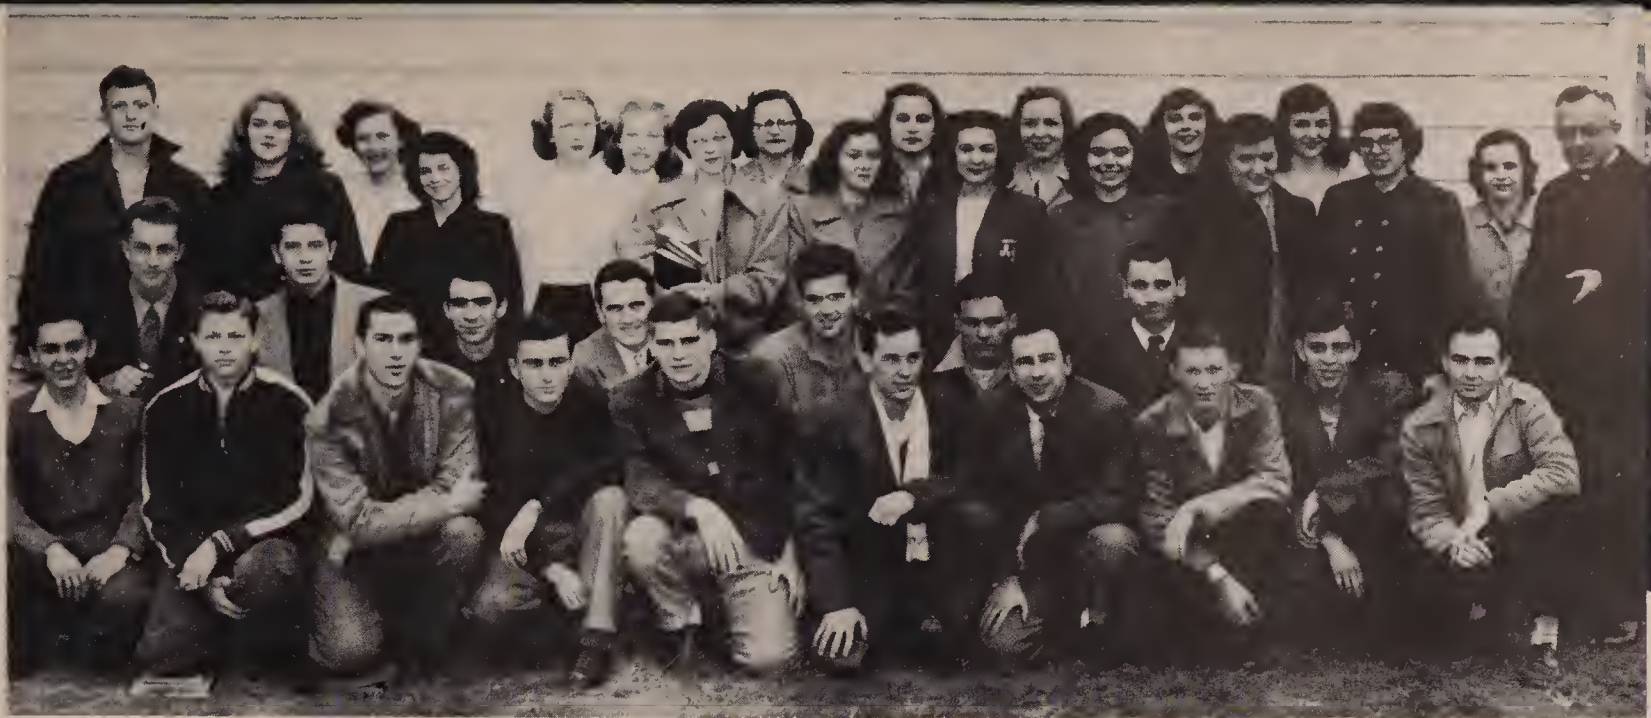

S. C. A.

The Student Christian Association is a national organization that stimulates discussions and aids in local and world service projects.

The group held several Retreats during the year, contributed time and effort to local churches, and sponsored dinners for outside speakers.

S.C.A. prides itself on being the only religious group on campus which is inter-racial, inter-denominational, and admits both men and women to membership.

NEWMAN CLUB

The Newman Club is interested in giving Catholic students an opportunity to meet and discuss their religious problems.

The group conducts such activities as communion breakfasts and parties, and invites outside speakers who shed knowledge on various subjects pertaining to religion.

M. S. M.

The Methodist Student Movement helps the student find a good church relationship. This year the M.S.M. sponsored religious activities on campus in conjunction with the various church groups.

The Evansville College organization was founded by Dr. James Morlock, dean of men and head of the sociology department, last year.

The M.S.M. on campus is a part of the world-wide M.S.M. The group cooperates with other religious organizations on the campus in promoting religious activities among students.

Swing your partner. Old clothes, square dance music, and a strong voice offer the students plenty of fun at the weekly square dances sponsored by the TUB.

The annual Christmas party is a TUB tradition that finds refreshments flowing to the tune of high spirits. Christmas vacation is just around the corner.

Monna Lou Dugan is displaying the latest style in bathing suits at the spring fashion show. This swim suit should be quite an attraction at the pool.

TUB

Many varied activities were featured by the Temporary Union Building during the past school year.

Freshman Orientation Week which preceded the opening of school last fall was held in the T.U.B. It included group meetings, lectures, and a freshman dance.

Other activities include the square dances every Wednesday night, occasional Club Tub nights, the all-campus Christmas party and afternoon tea dances.

Recreational pastimes include card playing and table tennis with tournaments scheduled in each.

Occasional parties were given for members of the T.U.B. management board committees. Teas were given for assembly guest speakers.

Miss Doris Kirk, Director of Social Activities, supervises the T.U.B.'s activities. Dorothy Surbeck serves as secretary. Other members of the Management Board are Joan Henn, decorations; Bill Woods, publicity; Karl Watson, recreation; Mary Hornuth, evenings; Woody Buechler, financial; Pat Kaiser, social; Paul Carnes, dances; and Jim Cooper and Sarah Kessler, assistants to Miss Kirk.

Miss Doris Kirk, director of social activities, is looking over a poster that announces a future social event, registered through her department.

PHI ZETA

"Phi Zeta fellowship" . . . opening words to the fellowship song rang true again this year as Phi Zeta Fraternity participated in the academic, athletic and social life of Evansville College.

The year's rush activities began at the East Side Business Men's Club and several days later thirteen men were pledged. Paul Singleton was pledge master during the Hell Week.

Phi Zetas won the Intramural Football League title, the annual football game with the Philos, 7-6, and the first bowling championship in the Men's Bowling League.

Several Phi Zeta-Sig parties were staged during the year along with a number of "stags."

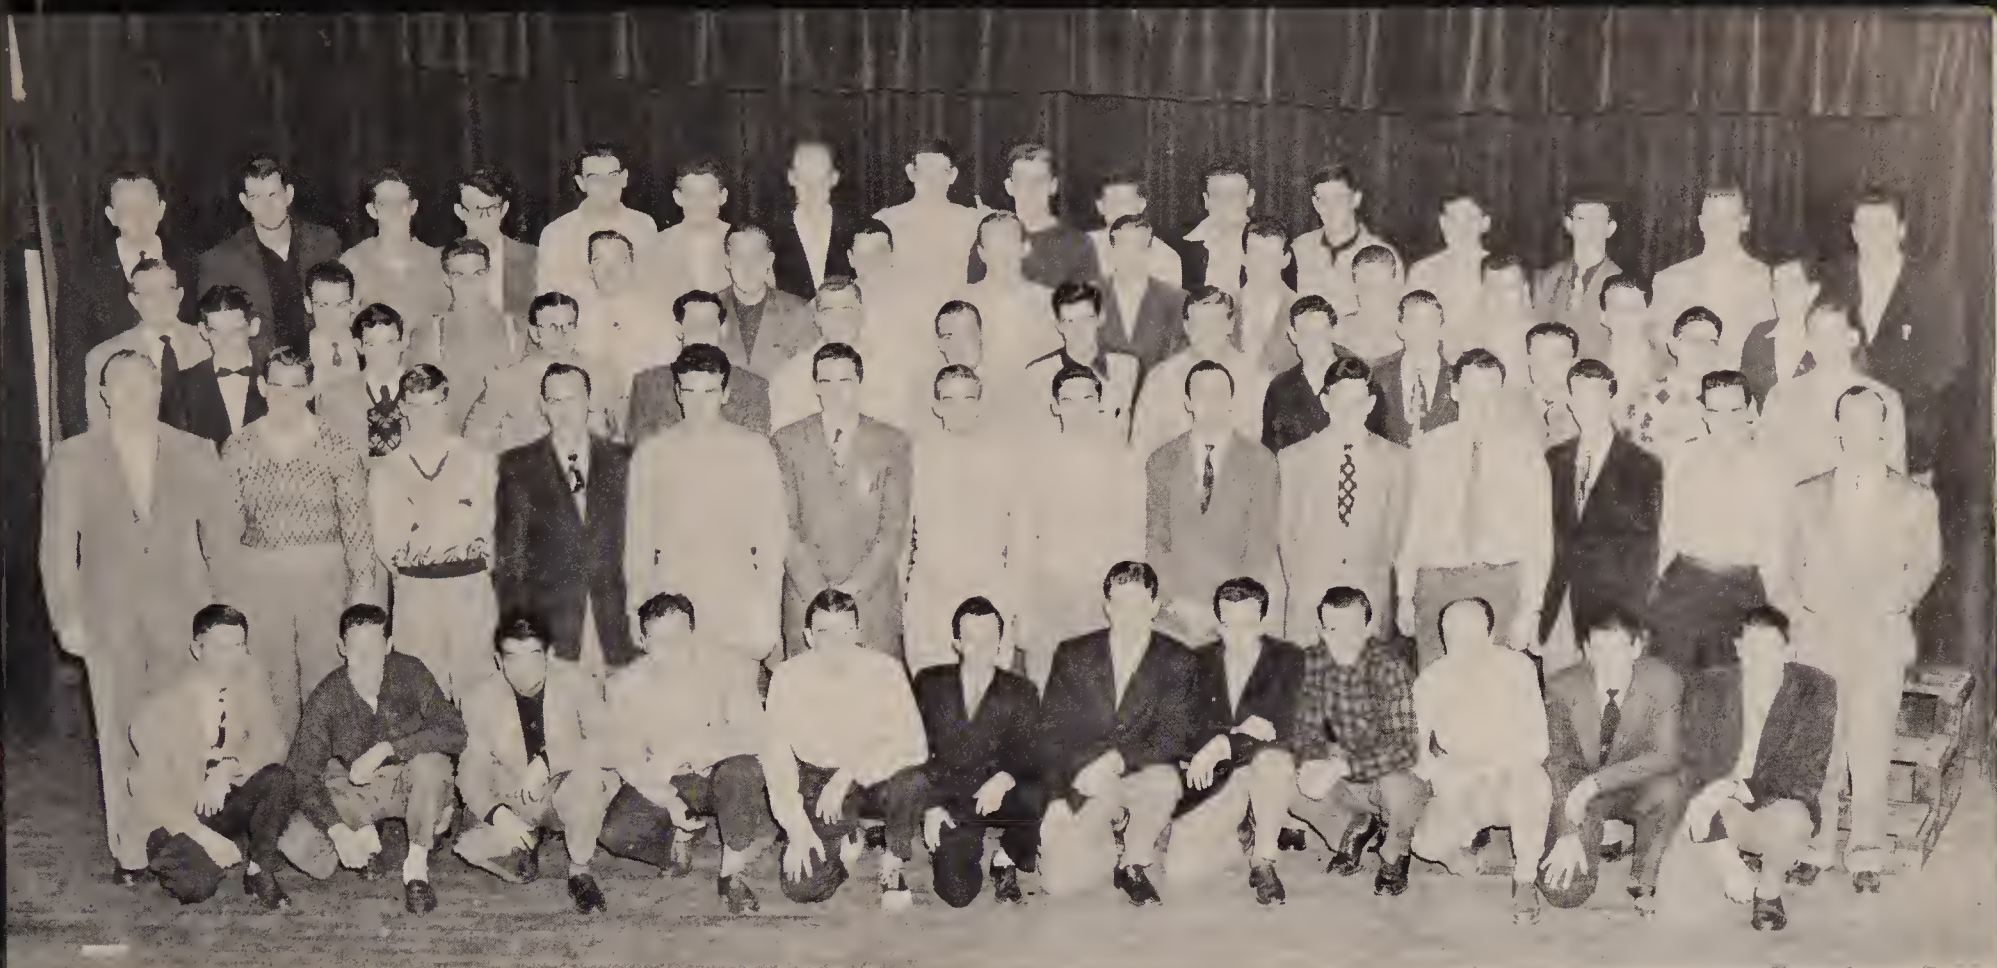

The Tenth Annual Phi Zeta Sweetheart Dance on December 16 at the Armory was the highlight of the holiday season. Marilyn Ramsey was chosen Phi Zeta Sweetheart during the evening.

In January winter rushing was featured with a party at the West Haven Gun Club. Sixty men were pledged on January 21, which was the second largest pledge class in the history of the Fraternity. Palmer Stanley acted as pledge master for this group.

The new fifteen piece Phi Zeta Dance Band led by Jimmy Finn was introduced at an assembly Hellweekspoppin' on January 27.

The annual Phi Zeta Spring Formal Dinner Dance was the big event in May and rounded out the Year's activities.

PI EPSILON PHI

Pi Epsilon Phi Fraternity, oldest on the Evansville College campus, opened its ninety-third year of activities in a big way by winning the football ticket sales contest.

Another victory for the Philos followed shortly when their float was judged the best in the Homecoming Day Parade. The name Pi Epsilon Phi is the first on a new plaque to be awarded each year to the organization with the best Homecoming Float.

Rush activities crowded the spotlight in October and rushees were entertained at a dinner in the Disabled American Veterans Home. Bill Borchert acted as pledge master for twenty-eight new pledges during Hell Week which followed.

The last day of school before Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations the Philos entertained the Castys and Thetas at a party.

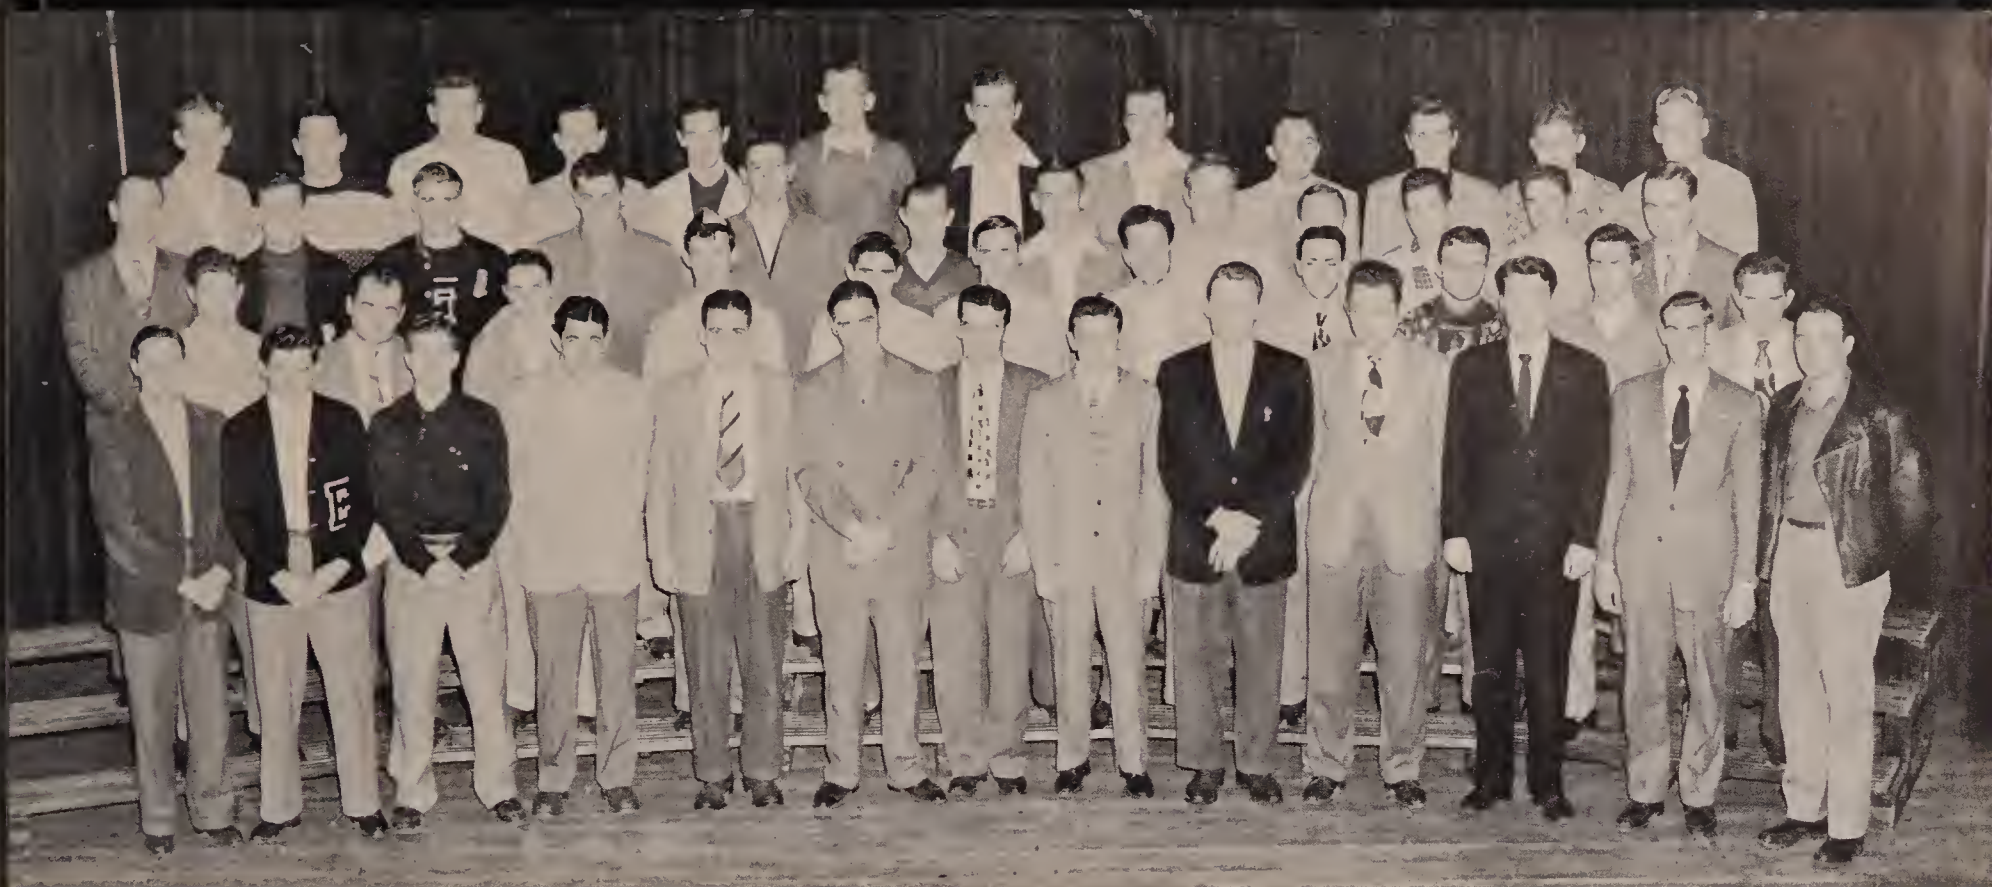

Bus trips to the Murray State football game in November and the Indiana State basketball game in February were big events on the Philo calendar.

A winter rush dinner was held at the Servel Gun Club, followed by the pledging of twenty-four men. Adrian Baize acted as pledge master for this group which introduced pledge caps to the campus in the fraternity's colors of gold and black.

The Philo Dance Band, together with the ever faithful and funny team of "Hevron and Ritter" provided a number of clever pep assemblies.

Pi Epsilon Phi rounded out the year of fellowship and fun with their annual Spring Formal Dinner Dance on May 7.

PI KAPPA

Pi Kappa Fraternity with Jim Fallace and Bob Rideout at the helm continued to grow in its third year on campus since its organization in 1946.

Sixty members wore the Pi Kappa pin before the year was over and helped uphold the motto "Fidelity to Fellowship."

In October a rush party was given in the Coliseum, Daughters of American Veterans Hall. In keeping with a fraternity policy to limit membership, twelve men were pledged at this time. The Chicken Coop was the scene of a Halloween party also in this month.

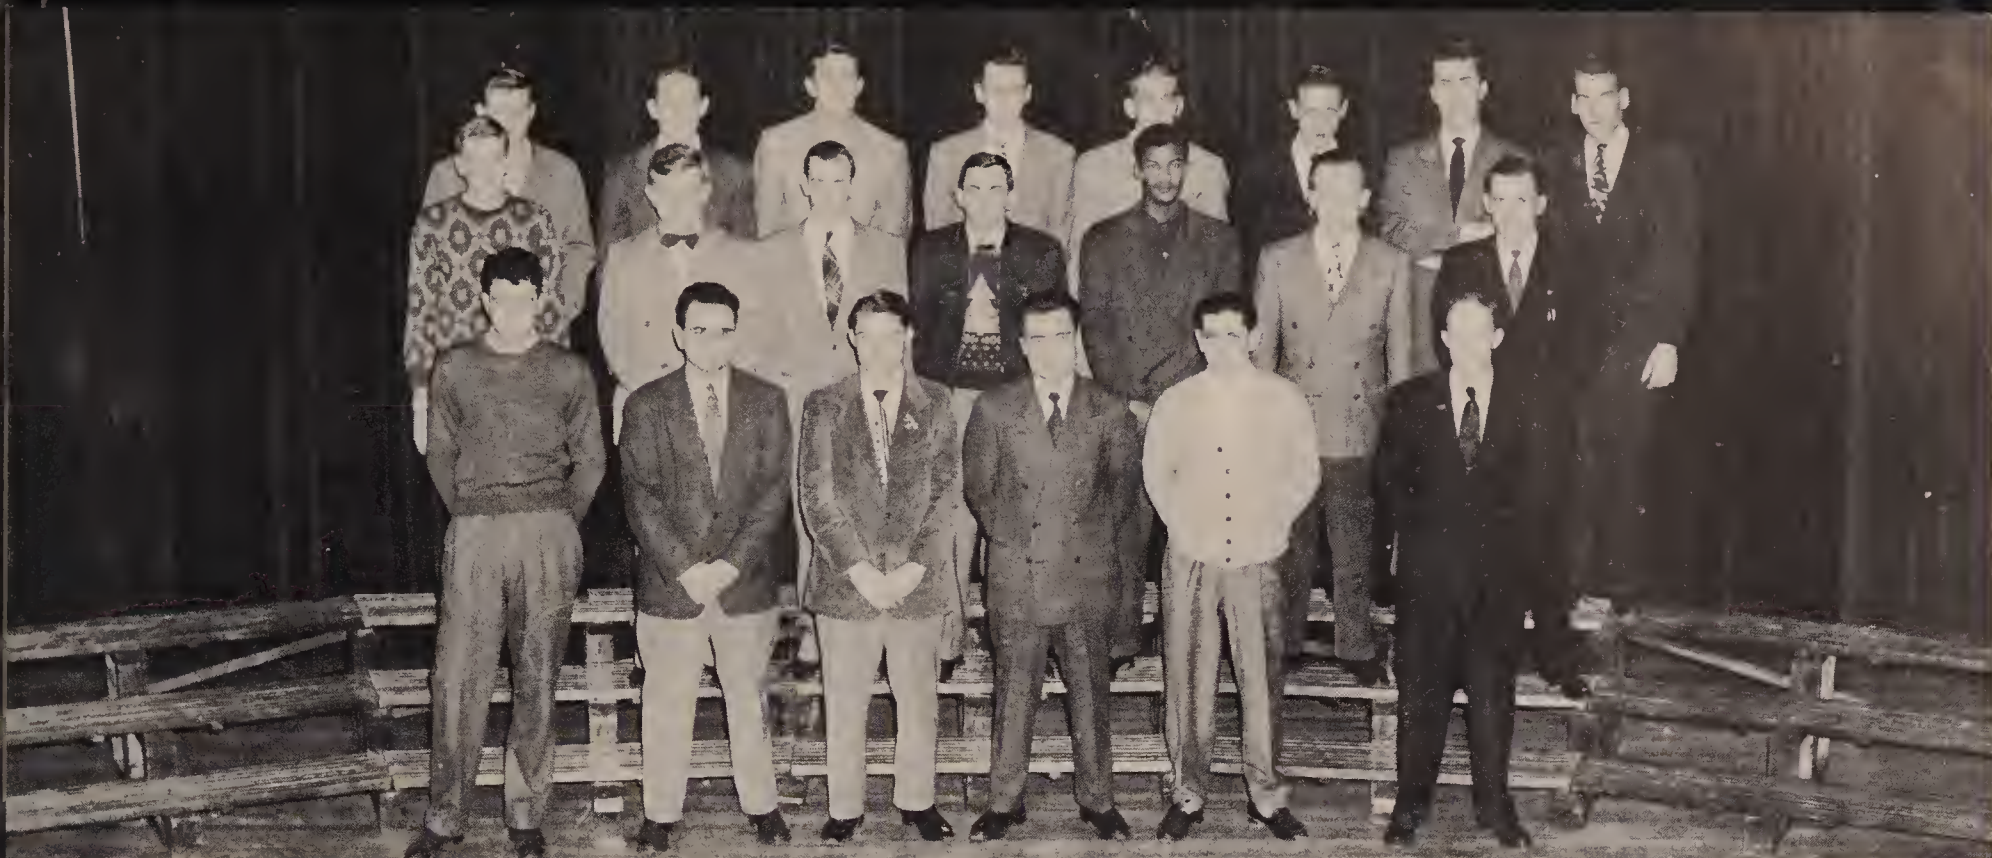

Pledges were initiated at a party early in November in the Veterans Foreign War Hall in the Rookery Building and two nights later they were entertained at a dinner in the Pioneer Room of the Spaghetti Bowl.

A stag party and a Christmas party in the VFW Hall were events of December. Another rush party was given in January and 16 men were pledged in the Assembly January 14. Shortly afterwards a party was given for them in the VFW Hall and a dinner at the Belvedere Cafe.

Pi Kappas active in other phases of school life were Andy Tempco and Ray Kopycki on the Men's Council, Jon Gundling, editor of the LinC, Roland Eckels, president of the International Relations Club, and Bob Rideout, president of Alpha Phi Omega.

On Student-Faculty Federation Committees were Angelo Howard, athletics; E. L. Whitmer, fine arts, John Schneider, assembly, Tony Capritta, welfare, and Michael Pasternak, religious life.

FRATERNITY BROTHERS

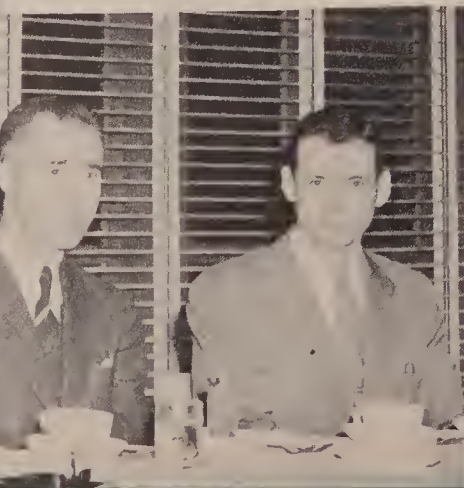

The Fraternity Brothers, one of the newer organizations on campus, is in its third year. This group, sponsored by the Masonic Lodge, was formerly the Acacia Club.

Acacia is the national fraternity's name and by not having a house the fraternity was not considered national. If a house is obtained, which was the main project of the group this year, the name Acacia will be adopted again and the fraternity will become the only national fraternity at the college.

Pledges to the fraternity are selected by active members. Seventeen pledges were initiated at a dinner at the Shrine Mosque, January 27, making a total membership of forty-seven.

To create friendship and fellowship is the primary purpose of this group.

Claude Bates is president of the fraternity; Bill Parsley, vice-president; and Marvin Brown is secretary-treasurer. Prof. Myron Bishop is faculty sponsor.

Gamma Delta, sorority for freshman women which had about fifty members this year, started its activities with the election of officers. Pat Bates was elected president; Margaret Mary Schenk, vice president; and Lois Ricketts, secretary-treasurer. Miss Esther Brown, dean of women was faculty sponsor, and Mrs. Helen Merle, sophomore, was student sponsor.

Early in October the Gamma Deltas gave a tea in the Women's Lounge for their Mothers. This was followed by a bake sale at Harding and Miller's Music Store.

In November the Castalian, Gamma Epsilon Sigma and Theta Sigma Sororities were entertained by the Gamma Deltas at a party in the TUB. Molly Marlatt, social chairman was in charge of the program.

A square dance for members and their escorts in the TUB was a big event for the Gamma Deltas later in the month.

The first two weeks in December, Gamma Deltas were guests of Castys at a pajama Christmas party, the Sigs at a Kiddie Party and the Thetas at a circus party.

With the end of the first quarter, Gamma Delta disbanded and many of its members pledged to the other three sororities.

CASTALIAN SORORITY

Under the presidency of Emily Combs, the Castalian Sorority opened an eventful year of work, achievement, and plans for a sorority house.

Work was the order of the day as the first sorority house in the history of the school became an actuality. Almost any Saturday for the next month Castys could be seen painting, cleaning and decorating an apartment at the home of Helen Nunn on Riverside Drive.

Finally settled in their new home by October, the Castys looked toward other things, including parties with the alums and parties just before Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations with the Philos and Thetas. Santa Claus and the Castalians entertained the Gamma Deltas at the traditional pajama Christmas party on December 8 at the Serval Gun Club. Castalians also observed Christmas by giving a basket of food to a needy family, caroling, and having a cozy time at their last meeting before the holidays.

Rushing with Cissy Buthod as rush captain was the big item during the second quarter and seventeen girls pledged at this time. A rotation party, an informal Gold Rush party, and a formal dinner at the Country Club were given for rushees. Following a tea and a dinner at the Vendome Hotel for the new pledges, they were subjected to the rigors of Hell Week and second degree initiation. Castalian pledges were recognized by red and white pledge caps worn for two weeks.

Traditionally, Castalians had their annual Spring Formal and Mother's Day Tea during the month of May.

At the close of the school year and in celebration of the end of finals a week-end party brought the 29th year of the Castalian Sorority to a happy end.

GAMMA EPSILON SIGMA

The oldest sorority on campus, Gamma Epsilon Sigma, founded in 1856 at Moore's Hill College, added another successful year to the ninety-two years of Sig history.

Summer activities included two dessert bridges at the Knights of Columbus and a swimming party at Atkinson Park in Henderson.

In October a hay ride to the Boy Scout Lodge in McCutchanville was climaxed with a square dance. Early in December the sorority sponsored a rummage sale which proved to be much fun as well as a financial success.

Along with the other fraternities and sororities the Sigs sold football season tickets. Homecoming activities kept the sorority busy with several evenings being devoted to decorating the float which was judged second best in the parade.

For the holiday season the Sigs placed the traditional Christmas tree in the main hall of the Administration Building. The night before Christmas vacations began, the Sigs and Phi Zetas went carolling. Joan Henn was hostess to the annual Christmas party at her home, and the actives were guests of the alums at a dessert bridge in the Belle Lodge Tea Room during the holidays.

During the two weeks of rushing, the Sigs entertained at the rotation party, an informal party at the Spence Tea Room and then at a formal dinner at Hotel McCurdy. After pledging, which was the last week-end in January, came Hell Week and first, second and third degrees for ten new members.

As in years past the Sigs were active in all phases of campus life — scholastic, honorary, governmental and social.

THETA SIGMA

Completing the celebration of its silver anniversary, this fall the Theta Sigma Sorority entered upon the biggest year since its founding in 1922.

Shortly after the opening of the fall quarter, Miss Agnes Bahlert, sponsor, became inactive because of duties as head of the department of home economics and Mrs. Martin Chanin was selected sponsor. Also during the month a Theta-Faculty tea was given to honor the return of their original sponsor, Miss Pearle LeCompte, who is home after a year's absence spent in England.

December 9 the Founder's Day Banquet was held in the Empire Room of the Hotel Vendome. Actives presented a skit depicting the twenty years of Theta history, and a booklet, the 25th Anniversary issue of the Theta Sigma Newsletter was given as a souvenir. The Alumni Scholarship was awarded to Lucile Temme.

During the Christmas season the annual party for the Gamma Deltas was given in the American Legion Home. A Christmas party among the actives with a gift exchange and carols added to the holiday events.

The annual Theta Football award was presented to Bob Gerhardt, Purple Aces captain this year. Bob was given a small gold football and his name was engraved on the award plaque.

The first Alpha Phi Mu plaque for the highest scholastic achievement among the sororities was awarded to the Thetas.

Thetas, in connection with the other two sororities, had a rotation party on campus for rushees which was the first in a series of three parties in the new plan of rushing inaugurated this year. Following this came an informal party at Camp Optimist and traditional formal dinner at Hotel McCurdy. Thirteen women were pledged and entertained at a pledge tea, then put through the paces of Hell Week.

Rounding out the year's activities were a Marathon Bridge, Style Show Bridge, an alum-active mixer, Mother's Day Tea, a week-end party and the Spring Formal.

ALPHA PHI DELTA

Although the Alpha Phi Delta is basically a service organization, members have frequent social activities. For the most part they include hikes, bicycle excursions, and other outdoor socials. This year, the sorority for those interested or active in scouting spent one week-end at Camp Koch near Cannelton, Indiana.

From the sober side of the sorority the records show that initiations were carried on in the early part of the second quarter and lasted for two meetings. In addition, they were instrumental in the "March of Dimes" campaign which was conducted on the Evansville College campus.

The officers' staff includes Joanne Engelbert, president; Louise Kiely, secretary; and Bernice Culley, treasurer; Miss Ida Stieler, sponsor.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, is composed of ex-Boy Scouts who are interested in furthering the aims of Scouting on the campus by constructive work and fellowship.

The "Ugly Man" contest was the first project of the year, which raised $146.28 for the purchase of sixteen Thanksgiving baskets that were given to needy families.

Alpha Phi Omega worked with Alpha Phi Delta in sponsoring the March of Dimes drive on campus. A total of $166.73 was contributed or better than a dime per student.

Professors Everette Walker and William L. Brandon were faculty sponsors.

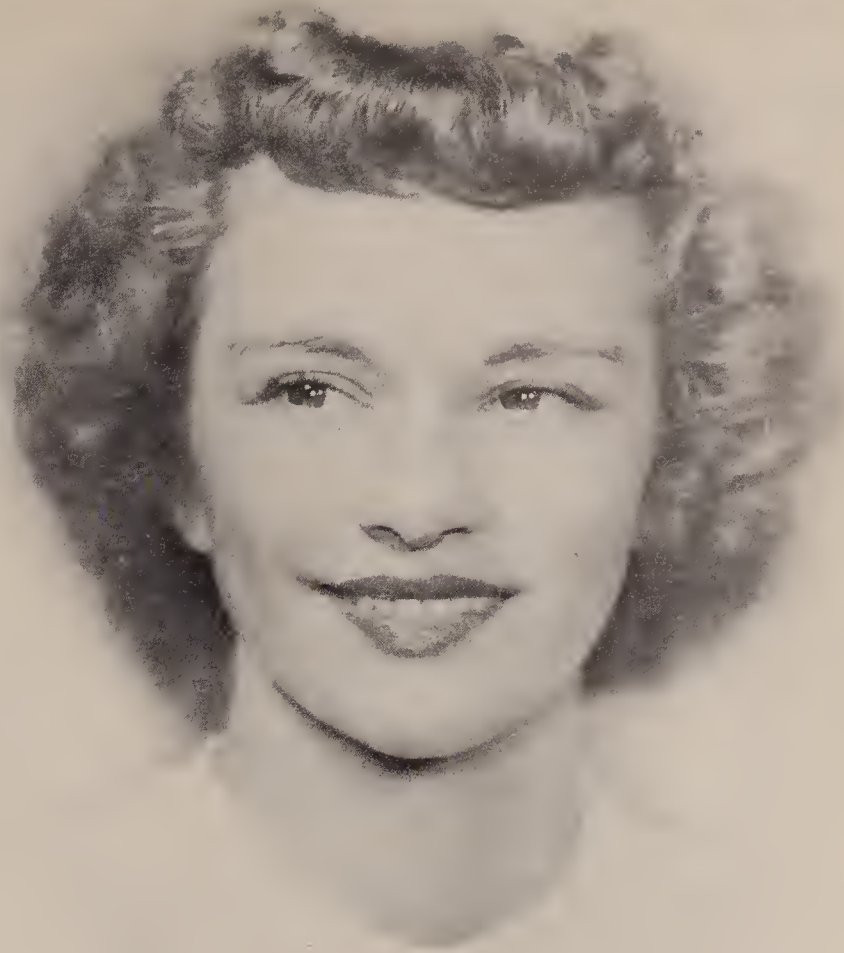

Officers for the first quarter were: Don Howard, president; Tom Turner, vice-president; Tom Boston, secretary; Dick Lambert, treasurer; James R. Hill, historian.

Officers for the second quarter: Bob Rideout, president; Jack Humphrey, vice-president; Tom Boston, secretary; Dick Lambert, treasurer; Jo Iglehart, historian; Bob Fink, sgt.-at-arms.

REFRIGERATOR BOWL

Evansville 13; Missouri Valley 7

Evansville College upsets highly rated Missouri Valley, 13-7 . . . The loss ends the Vikings' undefeated string at 41 . . . It marks the first Refrigerator Bowl classic sponsored by Evansville's Jaycees . . . Weatherman cooperates with perfect weather . . . Crowd totals 8200 . . . Tilt starts as punting duel between Gonterman and Valley's Wright . . . Logel hauls in a long boot and races to his right . . . Flips ball to Unfried traveling in opposite direction . . . With timely blocking, he speeds down sideline for an 85 yard scoring romp . . . Early in second period, Aces launch a 95-yard touchdown drive . . . It terminates as Endress crashes over from the three . . . Half-time festivities held . . . Present Refriger-adorable . . . Vikings band entertains . . . Last half commences . . . Aces fail to score in final two quarters . . . The Missourians tally with four minutes to go . . . Vikings drive 56 yards . . . Pendergrast goes over from three for visitors . . . Captain Gerhardt receives winning team trophy . . . Coach Don Ping gets the game ball . . . Logel nearly chokes up after receiving W. A. Carson trophy . . . Coach Ping triumphantly carried off the field by his players . . . Orchids to the Aces!

Coach Don Ping is carried off the field by Charlie Henderson after the Aces' upset victory over Missouri Valley, 13-7. The other two players are Mason Working and Joe Unfried.

Fullback Frank Endress is under a host of enemy tacklers but not until after he had crossed the goal line to give the Aces their second touchdown in winning the Refrigerator Bowl game, 13-7.

Morris Riley, fullback, takes off on a sprint around end for a sizable gain against Missouri Valley's Vikings in the first annual Refrigerator Bowl game at Reitz Bowl won by the Evansville eleven, 13-7. The loss was the first for the Missourians in 41 games starting with the 1941 season and ending Dec. 4, 1948 against the Aces.

Exhausted, happy and tired, Gene Logel and Coach Ping step forward to receive handshakes and the trophies from the Jaycee officials, sponsors of the Refrigerator Bowl classic.

Brilliant Gene Logel, Evansville's representative on the All-Midwestern football eleven and honorable mention on Little All-American squad, gallops for much yardage against Missourians.

Charlie Henderson and Line Coach Paul Beck observe the situation from the bench. Coach Beck is a graduate of Indiana State and he received his master's degree from Purdue.

Gene Logel lugging the pigskin against the Louisville Cards. Bob Kunkel assists Gene by blocking out a would-be tackler while Ron Watson (No. 4) was eliminated from the play. The action took place in the Aces-Louisville game won by the Aces, 18-6.

Evansville 12; Western Kentucky 6

Aces open season by downing Western Kentucky . . . Stadium is packed with 11,000 fans . . . Hilltoppers score first on passing arm of Pickens . . . Only score of the first half . . . Aces stage comeback after intermission . . . Logel paces drive down the field scoring on a plunge . . . Crouch chalks up last six-pointer on a reverse play . . . Western led first half statistics . . . Pingmen top last half averages . . . Near close Toppers try series of desperation passes . . . Gun fires! . . . Aces start on right footing in new Ohio Valley Conference race.

Things seem bad for Mason Working, Aces halfback, as he is about to be hemmed in by a host of opposing linemen during the Aces-Louisville game at Bosse Field.

Aces 12 — Butler 13

Playing under a brilliant October sun, Aces bow to Butler by single point . . . Conversion after touchdown . . . Bulldogs explode for two rapid fire touchdowns before half . . . McSemek boots winning points . . . Aces march downfield 61 yards . . . Riley crashes over . . . Halftime entertainment furnished by Butler and College bands . . . Last half is all Evansville . . . Passing attack gets into high gear . . . Logel scores on 59-yard pass-and-run play from Watson . . . Minute and fifty seconds to go . . . Lutz heaves long pass to Crouch for 41 yards . . . A "lucky" tackle and an interception end all scoring opportunities . . . Butler wins.

Aces 18 — Ottawa 6

Amid a sea of mud Evansville splashes its way to 18-6 win over scrappy Ottawa . . . Rain fell in torrents throughout encounter . . . This resulted in frequent fumbles by both teams . . . E-towners score three tallies in first three periods . . . Logel gallops 59 yards . . . Ping races over on pass from Logel . . . Coombes intercepts pass and swims 48 yards to pay dirt . . . Visitors score on a rare clipping penalty and a line plunge . . . Neither score during last quarter . . . Evansville's "mudders" rack up their second win of the season.

Aces 13 — Indiana State 12

Homecoming . . . The impossible becomes reality . . . Aces nip Indiana State in a story-book finish . . . Purples hold State's running attack to a minus 39 yards . . . Still Sycamores score twice . . . Pingmen take ball over on reverse play by Riley . . . Captain Gerhardt crowns Queen Helen Merle at half-time . . . Fireworks begin in last quarter . . . After Aces fumble State scores on 25-yard pass . . . Three minutes to go . . . Chester of State passes from his two to Wooley on the 40 . . . He out-sprints Aces remainder to score . . . Aces fill air with passes . . . Connect on five straight . . . Logel crashes over as gun sounds . . . Russler converts . . . Victory!

Aces 0 — Chattanooga 27

Aces meet biggest test of season . . . But as expected Chattanooga wins 27-0 . . . Tennessean eleven scores four touchdowns . . . Three on passes . . . The other on a 71-yard drive . . . Halftime and the rains came . . . Visitors go scoreless during last half . . . Aces make two serious scoring threats . . . One dies on the six and the other fails on the two . . . The latter misses being a first down by inches . . . Evansville suffers its second defeat of season.

Frank Endress is attempting to hang on to a pass thrown in the Butler game. Mariarty of Butler is blocking the ball while Delmar Pickels (no. 10) approaches from the rear.

Bob Gerhardt, football captain, who received honorable mention on All Mid-west team, was this year's Kiwanis award winner.

A jumbled mass of humanity in the Aces-Butler game. Who's got the ball? The man with his feet in the air is the ball carrier and he has been upset by an Evansville tackler. Number 37 is Richie Bauer, and number 46 is Bill Russler.

EVANSVILLE 7 EASTERN KY. 0

Evansville invades foreign soil for the first time this season . . . Purple Aces slush their way through rain-soaked turf for 7-0 decision . . . Eastern is the victim after having won six straight . . . Maroons make only serious scoring threat in opening minutes . . . Aces top offensive play thereafter . . . Punch over only touchdown in second quarter . . . Bauer goes over last stripe on line plunge . . . Fifty or so E-town rooters make more noise than 3500 Eastern fans . . . Victory number two for the Aces in O.V.C. play.

Bob Gerhardt, captain of the 1948-49 football team is placing the crown on Helen Merle's head while the attendants look on happily.

This tombstone barely tells the truth, as the Purple Aces buried the Indiana State team in a 13-12 battle.

EVANSVILLE 18 LOUISVILLE 6

An alert Evansville eleven took advantage of Louisville mistakes to win 18-6 . . . This ended a U. of L. victory skein of nine straight games against the Aces . . . Cardinal dynasty belongs to the past . . . Endress piled over for the first score . . . Crouch made it number two . . . McKasson rambles over on a fake pass play . . . Ends scoring for Aces . . . Third period is pointless . . . Cards register in last quarter on pass play to Brewer . . . Aces ring victory bell for fifth time of the season.

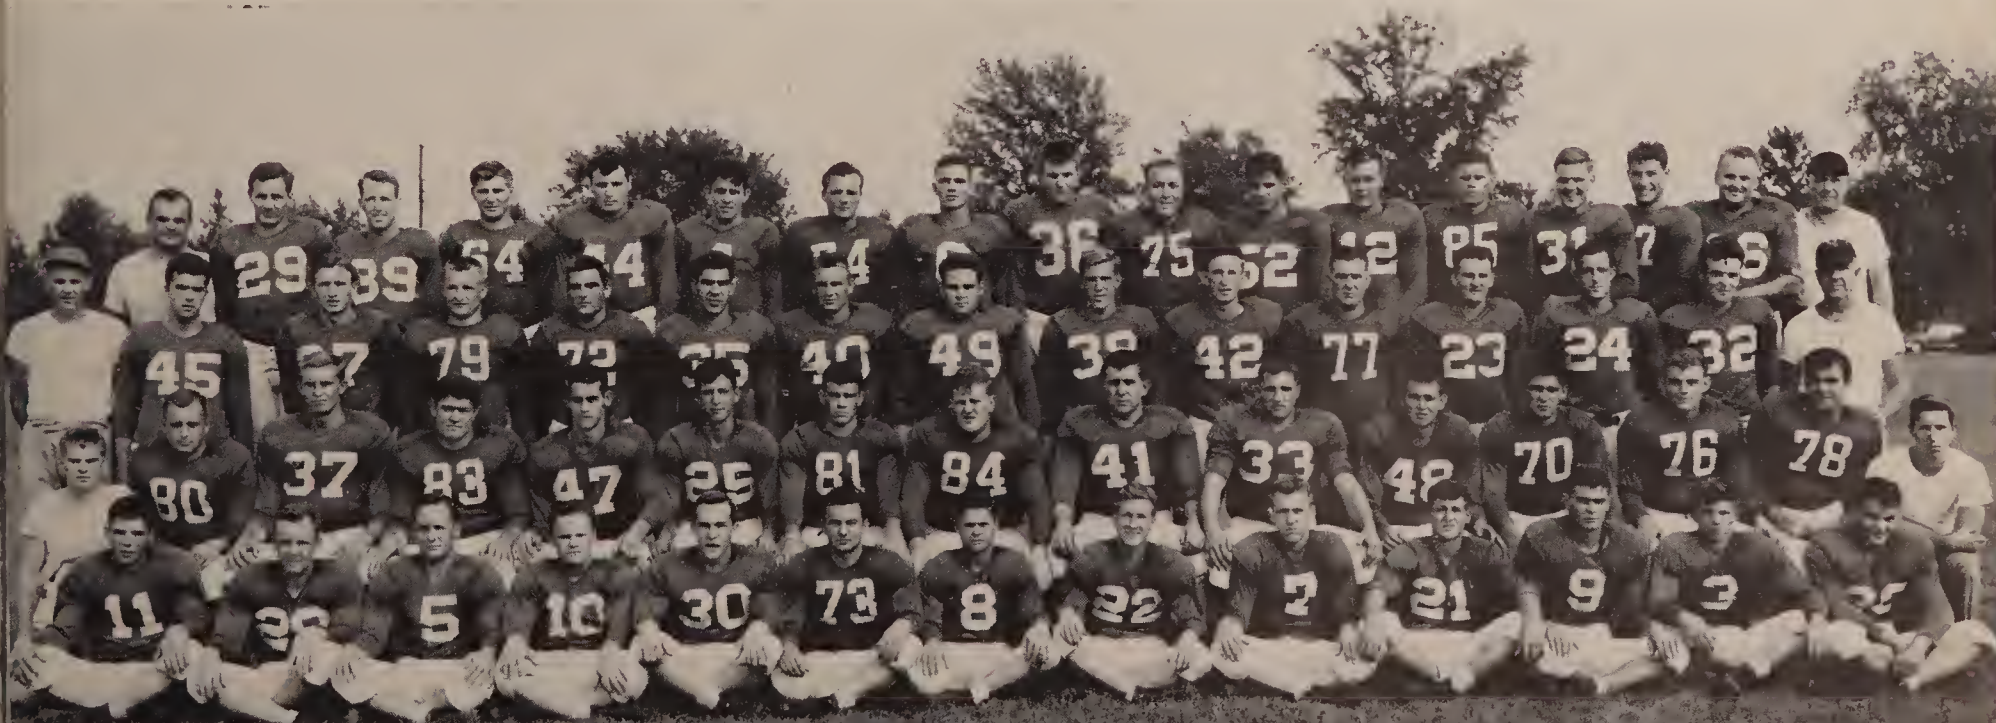

Victory flames leap in the background while Jim Cooper leads a cheer before the Louisville game.

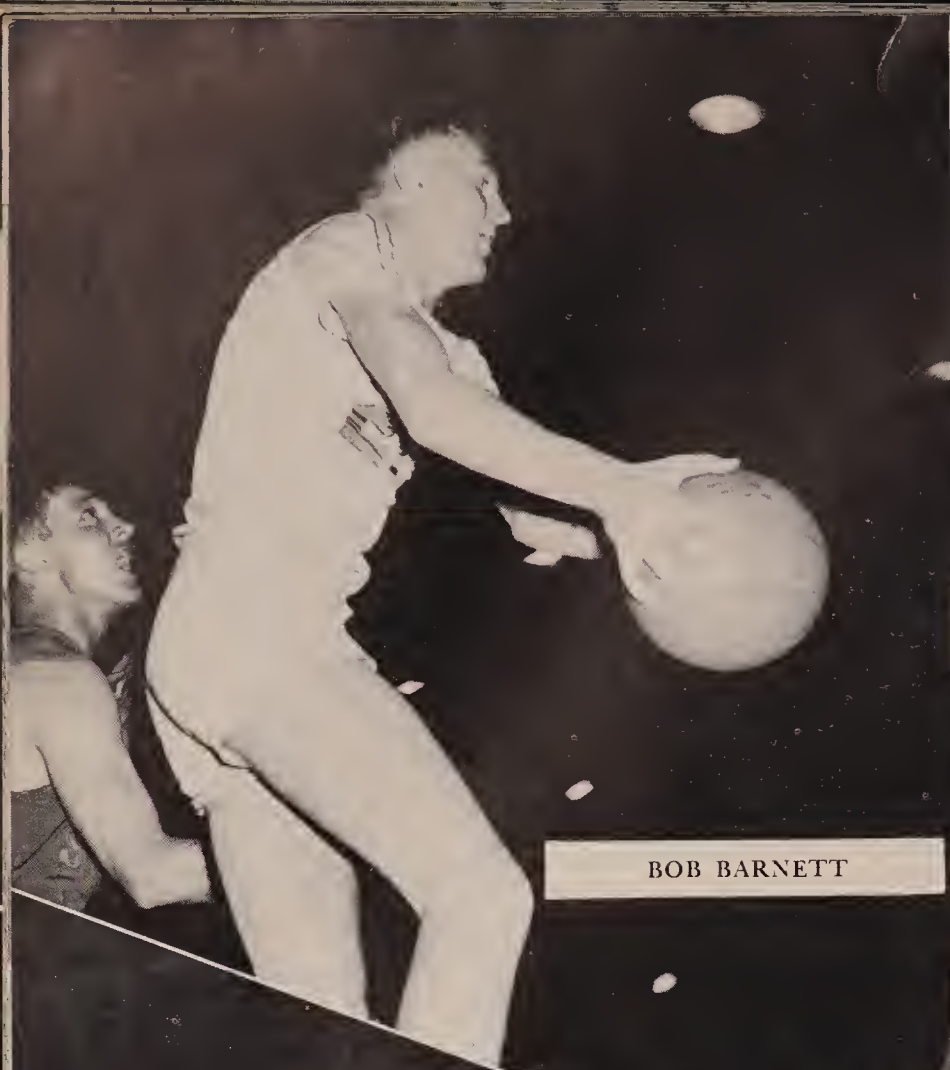

EVANSVILLE 7 MURRAY 9

Ohio Valley Conference championship at stake . . . Murray can share it . . . Aces can win it outright with a victory . . . Murray salvages a safety to top Evansville 9-7 . . . Purple and White score first with big Endress plowing over . . . 'Breds come right back . . . Score on 47-yard romp . . . Halftime finds two squads all even at 7-7 . . . Third period . . . Tempers flare up after some rough stuff . . . Peace restored . . . Second free-for-all begins . . . Murray fans rush in . . . National Anthem restores order . . . Endress trapped behind his own goal line . . . Safety . . . Aces forced to share conference crown.

A belated last-half spurt gives the Purple and White netters a 71-59 decision over Morehead . . . Purple Aces hit 43 per cent but Eastern Kentucky connects for 57 per cent and the result, an 85-64 defeat . . . Locals get back in the win ledger galloping over St. Joseph's Pumas, 66-45, at Jasper . . . Aces go "hog wild" plastering Georgetown in opener of Vincennes Jaycee Tourney, 79-42 . . . Canning eight straight buckets in last three minutes, Eastern Illinois waltzes over Aces, 84-67 . . . Runner-up Evansville places Bob Barnett and Bob Kohlmeyer on All-Tourney five.

Aces start the new year right by scalping Southeast Missouri's Indians 51-42 . . . Murray nips Evansville 56-54 at the gratis bar . . . Western Kentucky's tall Hilltoppers ooze past Evansville's little boys 76-72 after trailing for all but the last two minutes . . . Aces repeat an earlier season win over Oakland City dropping the Gibson Countians 63-53 . . . Joe Hafele sinks 8 of 12 from the field and converts on all of eight free throws to help Aces upset highly touted Eastern Kentucky 61-57 . . . Locals step into high gear crushing Southern Illinois 84-67 avenging an early season defeat . . . McCutchanmen flash finest form of season in dumping the University of Louisville connecting for 26 goals in 51 attempts . . . Lady Luck frowns on the Aces in the next two encounters bowing to Indiana State and Western Kentucky fives . . . Crescent City boys lower the boom against Murray 68-51 partially compensating for the football and basketball losses to the Kentuckians . . . Louisville's Cardinals give the college quintet a lesson in goal-sniping by an 82-57 count . . . For the second time Aces throttle Morehead 76-52 to close regular playing season.

Meeting Morehead for a third times proves disastrous to Coach McCutchan's hoopmen losing at the free throw line 57-54 . . . The loss ends any hopes Evansville might have envisioned of capturing Ohio Valley Conference tourney crown . . . Western Kentucky takes tourney as anticipated . . . Joe Hafele places on All-Conference team . . . Aces win 14 games against 11 defeats.

COACH ARAD McCUTCHAN has just completed his third season as the basketball mentor at Evansville College.

Arad played football and basketball while attending Evansville College. He was graduated in 1934 with a B.S. degree. He completed his education at Columbia University where he obtained his M.A. degree in 1939.

Before entering military service during World War II Mac coached high-school ball in Alabama and at Bosse of Evansville.

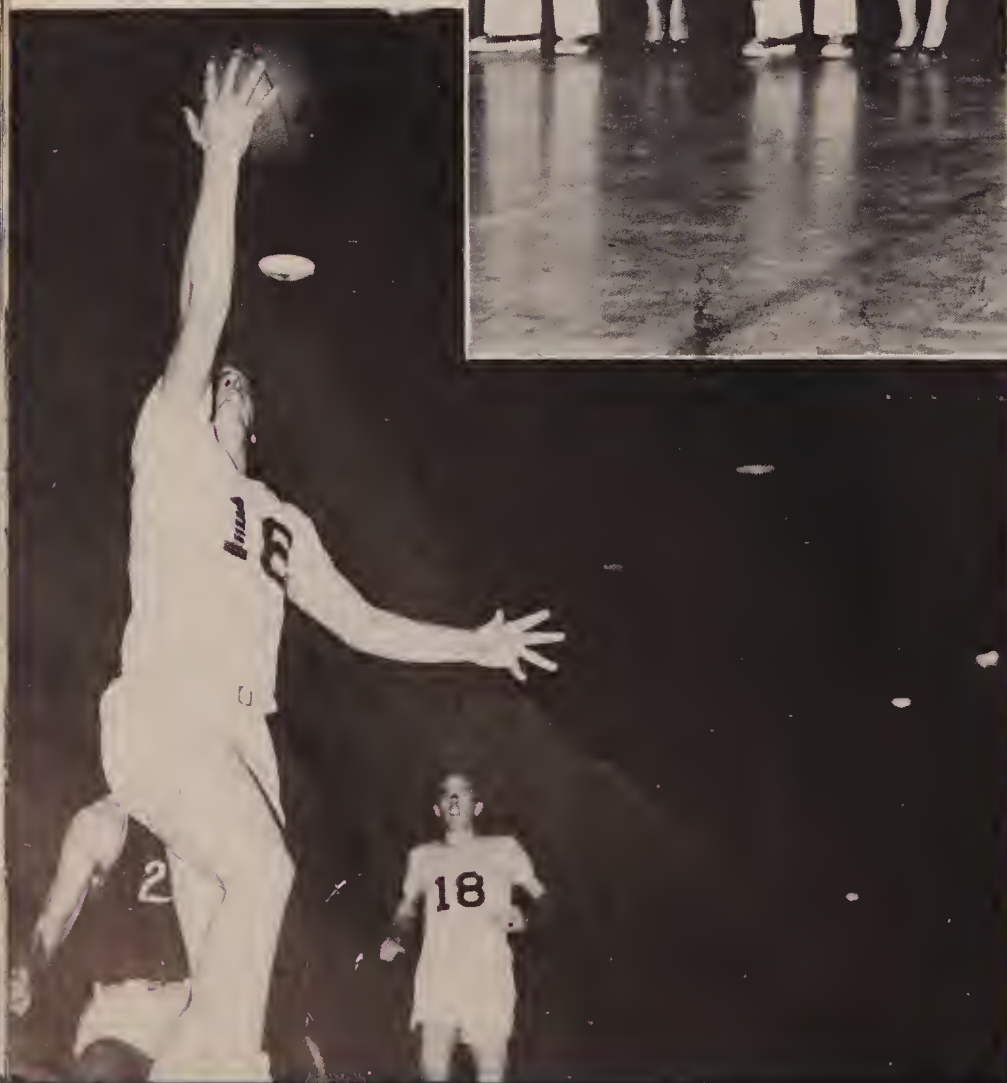

The 1948-49 edition of the Purple Aces won 14 while losing 11 games. The squad reading from left to right: front row: Larry Holder, Jim Barnett, Harry Axford, Bob Kohlmeyer, Bob Sakel and Joe Hafele. Back row: Student Manager Frank Schwitz, Jack Matthews, Alfred Buck, Assistant Coach Paul Beck, Bob Barnett, Harold Stubbs, and Student Manager Bob DeBard.

Bob Kohlmeier gets up into the rarefied air in the Aces-Louisville tilt won by the locals, 68-60.

LITTLE ACES

Evansville College's reserve squad completes its third season being still undefeated on its home floor . . . Jerry Canterbury tops scorers with 167 points . . . Record reads only four losses in three years . . . Players of the squad are: Jerry Canterbury, Ray Bawel, Jim DeGroot, Bob Northerner, Willie Sakel, Louis Korff, Ed Wessel, Gene Logel, Thornton Patberg, Lemois Wires, Bill Henning, Larry Cutsinger and Jack Rice.

Top: Louie Korff goes under to rack up two points for the Deuces. No. 23 is Lemois Wires.

Middle: Get the ball, Northerner. Bawel looks ready to assist the cause.

Bottom: Bob Northerner attempts to bat in an erring shot of a teammate. Willie Sakel and Ray Bawel look on.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

The Rifle Club, which is affiliated with the National Rifle Association, made great strides this year by having both men and women participate in six intercollegiate matches.

The women's team composed of Joanne Engelbert, Joan Hallinan, Carolyn Miller, Pat Schymik, Anne Whitehead, Ida Wallenmeyer, Margaret Kennedy, Martha Wessner, Louise Kiely, and Dorothy Dailey, competed against the University of Washington, University of Cincinnati, University of Nevada, Penn Hall College, and Beaver College.

The men's team fired against the University of Cincinnati and the University of Nevada. Members of the squad were John Williams, Henry Dersch, Richard Gerhardt, George Whitney, Allen Borgerd, William Duffey, and Carl Bohrer.

Officers of the organization were Joanne Engelbert, president; Henry Dersch, vice president; Carolyn Miller, secretary; and Richard Gerhardt, treasurer.

GOLF

Evansville College's linkmen shoot low scores but still lose points . . . Opponents record lower averages . . . Result — only a fair season . . . Victories were achieved against Southern Illinois twice . . . Aces were forced to settle for a tie with Western Illinois . . . Suffer defeats from Indiana State, twice, and Western Kentucky . . . In state competition locals finish eighth at Notre Dame . . . Irey, Trafton, Howard and Gonterman participate in State meet . . . Irey consistently fires lowest score of Ace golfers . . . Paul Beck coaches fairway men . . . Other members are Bob Hartman, Mike Loeffler and Jack Matthews.

Paul Irey, Aces top golfer, drives pellet down fairway.

TENNIS

Lady Luck has seemingly frowned on the Aces' tennis squad . . . Complete their second year without winning a match . . . Netters bow to Southern Illinois, St. Joseph's and Western Kentucky twice . . . Reuben Boswell and Willie Hopkins were the Aces top racquetmen . . . Bud Johnson coaches squad . . . Other members of the 1948 team were George Kaltofen, Witt Edwards, Bob Sakel, Fred Cook and Donald DeCavitte.

Harold Spradley goes up and over.

Harold Gourley clears the hurdle.

TRACK

Evansville College's cinder men placed third in a Quadrangular meet with Ball State, Valparaiso, and St. Joseph's . . . Locals suffer defeat from Indiana State despite capturing field events . . . Purple and White speedsters finally hit a winning stride swarming over Western Kentucky, 91½ to 41½ . . . Coach Arad McCutchan's track men gain eighth spot in Little State . . . Evansville comes in fifth in Big State activity . . . Top point honors go to Angelo Howard, Morgan Jones, Frank Lutz, Harold Spradley, and Don Galey . . . Other squad members: Bob East, Roy Fowler, Jack Humphrey, Bob Southwood, John McDougal, Harold Gourley, Paul Schmidt, Charles Nonweiler, Bill Phillips, Dave Steele, and Ray Coombes.

Angelo Howard, the broad-jump specialist.

W. A. A.

The Women's Athletic Association offers girls the opportunity to participate in such sports as basketball, volleyball, swimming, archery, softball, bowling, tennis and badminton.

During the year organized leagues are arranged to permit girls not enrolled in a physical education class a chance to enter into sporting activities. The sororities help to round out the program by forming volleyball and basketball leagues. Tournaments are sponsored by W.A.A. as well as instruction in sporting games.

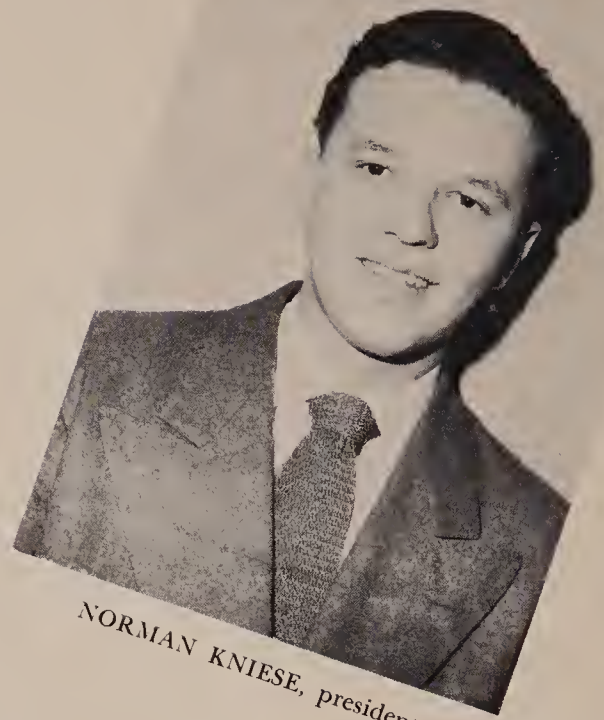

Miss Ida Stieler, director of the Women's Athletic Association, is a graduate of Battle Creek College; M.S. University of Wisconsin.

In this section the students that are climbing towards the top are pictured to make up the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior

SENIORS

NORMAN KNIESE, president

SENIORS

As a crop of very green freshmen we started our journey through four years at Evansville College. The registration baffled us, professors frightened us.

Officers elected to guide us were Harold Stubbs, president, Bill Lemcke, vice president, Rosalyn Flittner, secretary, and Bill McDaniels, treasurer. Lois Huck, Carol and Joe Fulford were cheerleaders, and the boys they cheered on were Paul Scott, Adrian Keener, and Harold Stubbs, of the freshman class.

Sophomores! No longer were we at the bottom. Mike Parkinson was elected president, Bill Neal, vice president, Pat Hubert, secretary, and Carol Golden, treasurer. The long awaited revival of Ace-Capades was a reality. Sophomore beauties in this production were Joan Henn, Sissy Buthod, and Bonnie Greubel.

Juniors — upperclassmen at last . . . our third step toward the top. Juniors elected Bill Hicks, president, Shirley Olson, vice president, Doris Witt, secretary, and Bill Holtz, treasurer. Joan Henn was elected S.G.A. secretary and Lois Huck, Phi Zeta Sweetheart.

Seniors at last, we filled many important jobs on campus: Jim Barnett was S.G.A. president, Al Jeffers headed the Engineering Club, Jackie Schmidt was president of the Secretarial Science Club, and Arlene Starry was editor of the Crescent.

As the largest graduating class in the history of Evansville College we shall always hold in fond remembrance our four years spent here. To the many friends and acquaintances we have made we don't say "good-bye," but so long.

SUE GOEKE, secretary

BILL STEPHENS, treasurer

UNDERCLASSES

The class section of the 1949 LinC was intended to be divided into three separate sections of freshmen, sophomores, and juniors. However, because of the poor turn-out of students having their pictures taken, we were forced to consolidate the three classes into one group.

The LinC published in 1948 did not include individual underclass pictures. This met with very unfavorable comment by the student body; and in trying to meet the desires of the students, the 1949 staff made a professional photographer available to all underclassmen for the purpose of individual pictures.

A class section of a yearbook is as good as the student representation make it. The enrollment of underclassmen at Evansville College is approximately 1300.

ONLY SERVEL

Stays Silent—Lasts Longer

(no moving parts in the freezing system)

At my sixth birthday party, in 1930, Mother made ice cream in our new Servel. "Can't ever get noisy," she told my Dad proudly. "Servel is the one different refrigerator."

Eighteen years later, Bob and I got engaged. Mother made ice cream in the same Servel. "And—it's still silent, like my solitaire," I said to Bob. "It'll be Servel for us!"

Yes—it was a beautiful new Servel for our kitchen when we fixed up the old house we bought after our wedding. For only Servel stays silent, lasts longer. The secret? Only Servel has no moving parts in its freezing system. No motor or machinery. Just a tiny gas flame does the work.

I love Servel's new conveniences, too. For fresh foods and frozen foods, it has every feature I want.

This story is typical. Writes Mrs. Floyd Buck of Middlebourne, W. Va., "Our son was a baby when we got our Servel. Now he's 20—and we've never had a thing wrong with our Servel."

CHECK FOR YOURSELF

- ✓ A big frozen food compartment
- ✓ Plenty of ice cubes in trigger-release trays
- ✓ Moist and dry cold for fresh foods
- ✓ Two dew-action vegetable fresheners
- ✓ Flexible interior—clear-across shelves

Every new convenience! See the new Servels at your Gas Company or dealer. (For farm and country homes, Servel runs on Bottled Gas—Tank Gas—Kerosene.) Servel is also maker of Servel Ball-Type Water Heater and Servel All-Year Air Conditioner. Servel, Inc., Evansville 20, Indiana.

Servants of Progress

Each year Evansville College produces a new stream of graduates to take their place in the ranks of commerce and industry in Evansville and the Tri-State. They come stirred with the enthusiasm of learning . . . flushed with new ideas and fresh spirit . . . to spark the growth of the community.

Like Evansville College . . . Keller-Crescent helps serve community progress. Since 1885 Keller-Crescent has played a part in community advancement as an organization of specialists in business promotion and graphic arts production . . . working in close harmony with leading commercial and manufacturing firms in the Tri-State.

This reputation, experience and responsibility . . . of which this book is a product . . . can serve you well as the Class of 1949 progresses from the halls of learning to leadership in the community.
